Snow Trick from freak storm

October Surprise Nor-easter causes widespread outages

WILMINGTON - A freak October Nor'easter slammed Wilmington Saturday night leaving downed trees and power lines. Wilmington escaped much of the devastation affecting neighboring communities but will be cleaning up from the mess for the next few weeks, according to the Department of Public Works.

The town infrastructure is in good shape, as roads remain clear. As of Wednesday morning there were approximately 150 customers area wide without power, with 25 in Wilmington.

Damage was mostly limited to trees and branches. Snow was not much of an issue. It did, however, snap power lines.

"The weight of the heavy wet snow and the presence of the leaves still on the trees holding more weight has caused many tree limbs to crack and bring wires down," said Kevin Sullivan, Engineering and Operations Manager for the Reading Municipal Light Department.

"Our crews are operating on one-hour's rest from last night," added Sullivan Monday. "We are calling them in at 7 to feed them, sending them back out to continue restoring power until midnight and then rest until 6 a.m."

Ten linemen, four tree crews, many station operators, operational assistants, runners, senior technicians, engineers, customer specialists and managers were called in starting at 6 p.m. on Saturday and working through the night to restore power to homes and businesses in the affected service area. Wilmington was the worst hit in RMLD's service area of Reading, Wilmington, North Reading and Lynnfield Center. The damage is extensive and new calls continue to come in say officials.

According to Priscilla Gottwald, spokesperson for Reading Municipal Light Department, there were 71 iden-

Schools targeting MCAS scores, special education

By JON BISHOP

WILMINGTON - On Wednesday, the School Committee heard presentations from administrators regarding school and curriculum improvement strategies, which coincided with the overall plan to enhance the district's performance. Each principal and administrator was to follow Superintendent Joanne Benton's recommendations. Goals had to be data-driven and measurable, and they had to document progress toward student achievement standards.

Principal Eric Tracy of Wilmington High School said his goals were to "share and integrate 21st century skills with the staff and within the curriculum, continue to address the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) recommendations, and to plan and study the implementation of special education inclusion classes."

NEASC is the accrediting organization for more than 2000 public and private educational organizations in New England.

Some of these improvements will coincide with the proposed high school.

"As you know, we're looking forward to the possibility of building a new building, looking at a new format for not only our schedule but also for our delivery of curriculum, includ-

Fiorenza awarded Silver Star, Bronze Star

By LARZ F. NEILSON

"You don't actually go to win a Silver Star," said Al Fiorenza. "It's just something that happens."

"What happened" took place in Korea 60 years ago. Al Fiorenza had joined the army, out of high school. Stationed in Fort Bliss, Texas in 1950 as a corporal in infantry in the famed 1st Cavalry Div., he received his orders and was shipped to Korea in early 1951. He was a Browning Automatic Rifle (BAR) man, trained in use of a hand-held light machine gun. It could be fired either from the hip or from the ground, mounted on a bi-pod.

Fiorenza landed with his division at Inchon and spent roughly the next year and a half entrenched in bitter combat in Korea. He was 19 years old.

On Oct. 5, 1951, Fiorenza's company was pinned down under heavy fire from two enemy machine gun nests on a hill chillingly referred to as "Bloody Baldy."

The only way for the Americans to advance was to eliminate the machine gun nests, and that is precisely what Fiorenza did single handedly with grenades and his BAR. His company advanced without loss of life.

"It's the position you're in, and you're gonna do your

Home from Afghanistan

WILMINGTON - Army Specialist Joseph Costello returned home this week after serving almost two years in the infantry including a deployment to a war zone. He speaks humbly about his experience as if he has done nothing special or interesting at all. He portrays an attitude of patriotism and service that makes you understand why our country can do great things...because of people like Joseph Costello.

A 2004 graduate of Wilmington High School, Costello worked first in a "regular" job and then decided to join the Army because he wanted to serve his country. He enlisted in January 2010, and that summer, deployed to Afghanistan. He experienced a way of life unknown

One-time state aid bump

Payment due this week restores previous cut in discretionary funding

BOSTON/WILMINGTON - A tough economy and conservative estimates led to a cut in state aid to Wilmington for the Fiscal Year 2012 budget. Legislative leaders announced Tuesday that the town will receive a one-time payment just over $150,000.

Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester), House Majority Whip Charley Murphy (D-Burlington) and Representative James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington) announced today that the Town of Wilmington is scheduled to receive $152,073 in Unrestricted General Government Aid (UGGA) from the Commonwealth this week.

The one-time local aid payment reflects the difference between the $2,103,236 in UGGA funding that Wilmington received in Fiscal Year 2011 and the $1,951,163 the town was allocated in the current Fiscal Year 2012 budget, effectively level-funding this account.

During last spring's budget debate, the House and the Senate agreed to utilize half of any surplus funding available at the end of Fiscal Year 2011 to restore the $65 million that had been cut statewide from the UGGA account. Had this agreement not been in place, the money would have reverted back to the General Fund and many communities would have been forced to make cuts to compensate for the shortfall.

"Given the many fiscal challenges communities are facing, returning this money to our cities and towns represents an important step in maintaining a strong partnership with them to maintain essential services such as police and fire protection and education," said Senator Tarr. "The disbursement of these funds reflects the priority that our municipalities represent in our state's budgeting."

"We are very pleased to be able to restore this local aid to Wilmington," said Rep. Charley Murphy, the House Majority Whip. "It has been a difficult few years in terms of state and local budgets and though we were cautious in our budget preparation, we had the foresight to plan to assist local communities should revenue allow. We couldn't be happier to direct these monies back to the cities and towns of Massachusetts."

"The people in the district are aware that I have always fought hard to make sure that we garner every bit of local aid possible," added Rep. Jim Miceli. "These monies will make a significant addition to our financial picture and will help to further the programs that are important to us all."

To begin his Army service, he attended basic training at Fort Benning in Georgia where he transitioned from civilian to soldier. Fort Benning is one of the Army's busiest installations with more than 130,000 people living, working, or training there. Costello explains that at Fort Benning, the Army training focused on things like how to be a stronger person both physically and mentally and how to overcome obstacles.

From Georgia, he moved to Fort Campbell (located on the Kentucky and Tennessee state line) to continue his training with the prestigious 101st Airborne Division, the only Air Assault Division in the world. Throughout its 66-year history, the Division has amassed a proud record of both war time and peace time accomplishments. "This is where the training gets you ready for combat," Costello explains. He talks of time spent on the ranges there, in special weapons training, and out on field maneuver exercises.

He also relates an experience that showed him personally it's a small world. While at Fort Campbell, he was in a civilian off-post establishment when he saw someone he knew from Wilmington.

Michael Sorrentino, WHS Class of 2006, is also assigned to Fort Campbell. The two just happened to be at the same place at the same time. "It was really funny all of a sudden seeing someone that I grew up with," Costello recalls.

Soon after that chance meeting, Costello left for Afghanistan. When asked about his impressions of that experience, he said "The first thing that hits you is the way the people live there; it's like the 14th century. They didn't have any of the technology or even basic health and hygiene systems that we do."

Because of his unit's mission, he saw close up and often what life is like in Afghan villages. Costello was assigned to a mountain outpost meant to deter and dissuade enemy presence in the region while improving the Afghan peoples' quality of life. As he describes it, the outpost was in a bowl area up at 7,000 feet, created by more mountains all around it. The soldiers lived in shelters that were basically bunks in metal storage units. Each platoon would take a turn going out weeks at a time to the many local villages. They brought the Afghans basic supplies. They would bring food, radios, and anything else the villagers might need or use. "The people were so grateful," Costello reports. "Even for the simplest things like pens. They love pens. That was one of the few English words they knew, pen."

Now that he's seen such a different existence, Costello admits that he took many things for granted. He's certainly ready to appreciate them now. He had been home only about 48 hours when he answered the question, "What are you going to do first?" He laughed and said "Rest." Then more seriously he answered, "I'm going to spend time with family and friends to catch up on all the things I missed."

Costello obviously values his family and Wilmington home town background. He comes from a large family and credits his "great parents" with his solid foundation in life. "They always encouraged me to work hard in school and in sports, and to stay with sports." Costello played football at WHS. He says his high school experience helped teach him dedication and responsibility. His family and Wilmington gave him the foundation he needed for the Army. He describes that foundation and says, "Then the Army brought me to where I needed to be."

Costello is back in Wilmington because he feels strongly there's no place like home. Massachusetts and New England are home to him. Admittedly though, he knows he will never forget the men he was with in Afghanistan. "We sweat together; we bled together - it's a brotherhood and a bond that no one will ever take away from us." Though he's home now with family and long time friends, he says he will definitely stay in touch with those men. This Veteran's Day will have a special meaning for Costello and his family as the country honors all of our military, past and present, for their service and sacrifice.

Specialist Joseph Costello's deployment to Afghanistan involved working with that nation's police force. The US Army trains Afghan military and police forces to improve security for the nation and its communities. Here an Afghan police officer shares chai and bread with Specialist Costello who had been reviewing training with him.

and the high school band will play special selections appropriate to the day. Veterans from the recent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, he said, will also be in attendance.

Cimaglia said he will address the crowd along with honored guests Senator Bruce Tarr, Representative Jim Miceli, and, possibly, a veteran from World War II will also give remarks.

Cimaglia said he hopes for a sizeable crowd.

CASUALTY LOSSES

There's been a lot of destructive weather in 2011 - floods, blizzards, tornadoes, hurricanes, even drought-based wildfires. Your losses may be deductible, but you have to follow the rules.

There was a time when taxpayers could deduct almost all their casualty losses, and Uncle Sam would ease the pain. It's tougher now. Casualty losses are deductible to the extent not covered by insurance. (If you're insured and don't file a claim, you can't take the deduction.) But losses are offset two ways: by $100 per incident, and the remainder to the extent that it exceeds 10 percent of adjusted gross income. Only itemizers can deduct for personal property. The rules are easier for business assets.

For those in presidentially declared disaster areas, there are special rules. They may deduct this year's losses on either 2011 or 2010 taxes, whichever saves the most. If 2010 taxes are already filed, they can be amended to get a refund from the IRS.

We can help you make a disaster somewhat less disastrous. See the tax people at dance has increased every year," said Cimaglia.

He'd encourage residents to come and show respect to veterans. He did say, however, that usually isn't a problem in Wilmington.

"I've been proud of Wilmington," Cimaglia said. The town has always stood up for the veterans and veteran affairs.

"We've been very fortunate for that," he added.

Interested residents should arrive at the Fourth of July Building before 10:45 a.m. Residents should contact Cimaglia with any questions or concerns.

A month later, on Nov. 6, 1951, he was awarded the Silver Star, the third highest combat medal in the U.S. military. The citation read:

"Corporal Albert G. Fiorenza... is cited for gallantry in action against an armed enemy on 5 October 1951, near Sonbyok, Korea. As Company E attacked Hill 334, it was subjected to intense enemy fire from well-constructed emplacements, pinning the men down. Disregarding his personal safety, Corporal Fiorenza moved forward toward the largest and most formidable position. Despite the intense fire and the large number of grenades the hostile troops were using, he skillfully threw several grenades into the enemy stronghold, killing the entire crew."

Later in the war, Fiorenza's company was barraged with high-velocity rocket shells. Some shrapnel hit Fiorenza, but he was saved by a rifle, in a defensive capacity.

"I had an (M1) rifle beside me that got hit with a piece of shrapnel and was cut in half. Thank God I had that rifle there, or I would have been killed," he said.

Due to shortages of troops, Fiorenza was patched up by field medics and sent back to the front lines. Later he would receive the Purple Heart for wounds received during combat.

Fiorenza saved the rifle that saved his life. He made it as far as San Francisco before the Army took it away.

"I wanted that rifle for a souvenir," he said. "It was of no use to the government, but they wouldn't let me keep it."

Al returned to Wilmington in the middle of 1952, a highly-decorated combat veteran. For his service, he received the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, a Purple Heart and the Combat Infantry Badge (CIB), given for participation in actual infantry combat.

Back home in Wilmington, he established a coffee truck business, just as the area was undergoing a tremendous building boom. Once that became a success, he sold the route and bought another truck. Repeating this, he established a service center for coffee trucks, with a large kitchen. He also opened a business converting pickup trucks into coffee trucks, which he would sell or lease. He then built a function hall, the Casa di Fior on West Street, facing I-93. He expanded that several times, and the building eventually had a grand entrance with a peak resembling a steeple. Its resemblance to a church became reality last year when the Grace Chapel bought the facility. Fiorenza has also had other successful ventures including Three Cheers restaurant in Boston.

He is now retired and living in Florida.

He is firm in his conviction that the United States won the Korean War. Proof of victory does not come through a cease-fire agreement or a line drawn in the sand, but in the gratitude of South Korea.

Fiorenza returned to South Korea in 1983 as a guest of the South Korean government, and was amazed at the progress that had been made in 30 years.

Letters to the editor

Holocaust reference out of line

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to reply to Ms. Schindler's letter to the editor in last week's Crier. To compare the removal of a speaker at a town meeting to the Holocaust is so offensive I hardly know where to begin. Your husband really had to ask "If the Wilmington Holocaust was next?" I am not Jewish or a member of any other group that was targeted by the Nazis, but I can't remember a time when I felt more offended by the written word. How exactly does one compare the extermination of six million people to the removal of a speaker at a public forum?

First of all, you should get your facts straight before using such hyperbole. The speaker was NOT removed because he disagrees with the town manager. That statement is an outright lie. He was removed because he chose to verbally attack individuals instead of making his argument(s) about why we should not build a new high school. He is against the new high school - I get it. I don't happen to agree with him but I understand that some people oppose this project. Had he chosen to stay on topic and speak about why he is opposed to it he could have spoken for as long as he wanted to (and probably gain some credibility as well). But he chose a public forum to try to embarrass a public official with personal insults instead of speaking about the topic at hand. Ms. Schindler, instead of telling us, the residents of Wilmington, that we should read The Diary of Anne Frank, perhaps you should read Robert's Rules of Order. Some call open public meetings the ultimate form of democracy. I agree. I also think that democracy is alive and well here in Wilmington. The removal of an out-of-order speaker does nothing to diminish the town in my eyes. I would expect the same treatment for myself if I got up and verbally attacked anyone at a town meeting. It is simply not the place for it. Public meetings are for verbal jousting, back and forth, on the topic at hand - not for personal gripes and name-calling that wastes the time of everyone in attendance. Ms. Schindler, if you love your former town as much as you implied in your letter then perhaps the next time you write a letter to the editor you can find a more appropriate metaphor than the Holocaust. This writer found it very distasteful.

Sincerely,
John F. Bonish

From: The Editor's Desk

by Jayne W. Miller

At times like these, communities come together and learn what they are made of. Last Saturday's freak snowstorm brought down trees and power lines, and some spirit as well. When the heat is off and the temperatures dip at night, that's when neighborliness really matters. It's when the minutiae of everyday life that might normally drive us a little nutty - an ugly fence, loud music, the barking dog - those little things fall away under the concern we share for our neighbors in need. In Tewksbury I spoke to one woman who went door to door

Vote YES. The Current School Building Is 20% Undersized.

Dear Editor,

Wilmington High School was built in 1950. Over the past 60 years, the school has undergone 5 renovations. According to the Massachusetts School Building Authority, at only 158,500 square feet, the current Wilmington High School building is approximately 20% too small. Their standards dictate that the school should be at least 189,120 square feet.

Virtually every area of the building lacks the space to adequately educate our children. Classrooms are 15% too small, science labs are 30% too small, and the library/media center is nearly 20% too small. The auditorium is undersized by more than 30%, leaving it woefully ill-equipped for storage, rehearsals and performances.

Most departments simply do not have storage space and are forced to share limited space with other departments. The athletics department has to store items in a hallway, and elements of the gym such as the weight room and wrestling area are inefficient and outmoded.

Teachers lack adequate space for curriculum planning and many of the classrooms in the current building were not designed to be used as classrooms. The custodians' office, the district's special education offices, the school's old library and teacher cafeteria have all had to be converted into classrooms. Print, electronic and auto shops have also been converted into classrooms. Many special education classrooms are shockingly substandard and they are dispersed throughout the building, making it difficult to create a cohesive team teaching environment for those children who need services.

A twenty-first century high school should include small group classrooms for project-based learning and a large lecture hall to familiarize students with that kind of setting in preparation for college. Our current building simply cannot accommodate these learning environments, leaving our children at a disadvantage in a competitive college and work marketplace.

Wilmington High School's health services department is also deeply affected by a lack of space. The nurse's office lacks privacy, making it difficult for the school nurse to properly administer necessary care while maintaining students' right to confidentiality. The school psychologist's office is headquartered in a former book closet. The guidance office is storing permanent records in an old bathroom.

The truth is that space at the high school is extremely limited and classroom space is inadequate because the building is far too small and outdated. When it was designed and built, the population of the town was substantially smaller than it is today and the technology used in schools was far less advanced.

The limitations of the current Wilmington High School are severe enough to inspire the Massachusetts School Building Authority to guarantee that it will fund more than 50% of the reimbursable costs of a new Wilmington High School.

This building project is not about "enriching Wall Street bankers," as some have suggested. This project is about enhancing the educational experience of Wilmington's children and preparing them to be competitive in college and in the work force. Our children deserve a twenty-first century education. The only way to provide them with that is to build a new high school that has adequate space and that can accommodate current technology for them.

It's time to end the conspiracy theories, rhetoric and sideshows. Wilmington knows what it needs to do on December 6 and December 10. Vote YES for a NEW Wilmington High School.

Sincerely,
Dawn Reidy

Supporting education in a new high school

To the Editor:

Since the onset of the feasibility studies with regard to a new Wilmington High School, since the very beginnings of conversations on the need for a new facility, I have noticed a significant omission in the "conversations" published in this editorial forum:

What will be the educational benefits for student learning and professional pedagogy by building and/or renovating the current Wilmington High School?

Sure, we can argue the logistics of finance, tax increases, and reimbursements from the State. We can cite the economic downturn or the fluctuations in housing market cycles. We can point fingers at our neighbors who stage filibusters during public hearings and the officials who remove them from our view. We can print, week after week, editorials that vilify individuals, make claims against democracy or even threaten the childhood memories of Wilmingtonians of by-gone eras.

However, THIS Wilmington resident and parent and public school teacher would like to get back to discussing what should be the very impetus: providing a quality high school education in a facility that reflects current standards for excellence and physical lab/classroom spaces for instruction in the STEM subjects (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math), continuance of the high standards in both English and history, while also providing vibrant opportunities in the visual and performing arts, relevant course electives in various disciplines, the study of world languages, Special Education services, and a competitive athletics program. Why? Our kids deserve to be able to compete academically, financially and socially in what will become their future. Historically, the economy will improve and fluctuations in the housing market will steady. Growing families, however, will continue to purchase homes in communities with strong public schools and available services. Wilmington is not keeping educational pace, and dare I insist, working against maintaining high housing values by ignoring the need (not luxury) of a new high school.

This argument over a new high school isn't about us—the already "educated"—it's about enabling and optimizing student for success in a challenging, dynamic and emerging future. We are well aware that past diplomas and degrees aren't carrying us as far as they once did. We need to recognize that employers are culling talent from the best and brightest across the world. Has anyone been paying attention to the push to make the U.S. workforce more globally competitive? Our current high school was designed and built to train factory workers in a post-agrarian Wilmington. Its time the argument for a new high school shifted away from an emotional base. Let's look at the statistics of learning, teaching, competing, innovating, and caring for our communities. We aren't just building a high school. We're building upon our civilization.

Respectfully submitted,

Sue Rogers

A powerful performance was given by Sergeant Daniel Clark this past Friday evening to nearly 200 Wilmington and nearby residents. Mr. Clark is a dynamic, versatile entertainer, who dialoged humorous stories of his career between his patriotic music, Broadway songs, Irish ballads, and familiar popular tunes. He disclosed little known facts about the writing and composing of "America the Beautiful", thereby giving the audience a piece of history to take with them at evenings end.

He performed favorites from "Camelot and Les Miserables", popular songs "That's Amore" and "MacNamara's Band", and gave hauntingly lovely renditions of "Danny Boy" and "The Impossible Dream". A former Marine, Dan sang the songs for each branch of the armed forces, asking for a hand waved in the air for each person who has served, or has a loved one serving.

Such a personal performance can only be followed by greetings, autographs and photographs. Both audience and performer alike were encouraged by each other.

The "Sarah Committee", as Dan called the five members of the Lecture Fund Committee, is already hard at work on a program for fall of 2012.

Many thanks to our hard-working custodial staff who stayed after hours to care for the grounds and building, so that free entertainment can be presented to residents courtesy of the late Sarah D. J. Carter.

Letter to the editor

Don't Buy the misinFARmation"

Dear Editor:

A few people seem to think that we should purchase the Sciarrapa Farm on Andover Street and build a new high school there. Here are 10 reasons why we should not:

1. The property is not for sale. If the Town wants the property, it would have to take it by eminent domain. With the legal process involved, it would take several years before the tax payers would know what it actually costs.

2. Even if the farm were for sale, it would be very expensive. The last time it was on the market, it went under agreement for approximately $7 million dollars. The cost to purchase the land would NOT be reimbursable by the State.

3. The town would have to widen and improve Andover Street to accommodate bussing. It's not the right place for that kind of bus traffic, and widening it might require more land takings.

4. A few people talk about getting more state money for a model school, which could be located on the farm. In order to build a model school, a town needs to be invited by the state. Why work for incentives that might add up to a few more state dollars at the risk of losing the whole grant?

5. It doesn't make sense to have high school students racing to school on Route 125.

6. The Town considered many alternative sites through the course of several months and numerous public meetings. After all this work, and based upon the public feedback, most people seem to believe that the High School belongs in the center of Town, near the common, at the current and proposed site.

7. One person wants to rent out the current high school for office space? Apart from the zoning problems—can you imagine the traffic? If you're looking for tax generating office space, Route 125 is the better location for that purpose.

8. When and if the price goes down a bit, we should consider buying the farm for much needed recreational field space.

9. The state is giving us nearly $40,000,000 to build a new high school at the current site, and to build it now.

10. You can't always please everyone, and when it comes to a few of the most vocal opponents to this project, you may never please them.

Sincerely,
Shelley Sainato

Horribles Parade a Success

Dear Editor:

On Sunday, October 30, 2011 the Recreation Department sponsored the 44th Annual Horribles Parade. While the snowy backdrop was unexpected, this much anticipated event generated the usual excitement!

Hundreds of children and their families marched from the Public Safety Building to the Wilmington High School Cafeteria where treats galore awaited all costumed children. To the delight of all, a fire truck and police escort led the way.

We estimate that approximately 400 children participated in this event. The success of an event of this size requires the support of many organizations within town. Special thanks to Century 21 Starwood, CVS, Kiwanis Club, Lucci's Supermarket, Jean & Jim Miceli, Tewksbury-Elks, The Wonder Years Learning Center, Walgreen's of Wilmington, Wilmington Sons of Italy, Wilmington Fire Fighters Association, the Wilmington Fire Department, the Wilmington Police Association, and the Wilmington Police Department for their generous contributions.

Sincere thanks also to the Fourth of July Committee for the use of their facility, and the dozens of volunteers who decorated, distributed candy and in general helped everyone enjoy this Halloween tradition.

I am grateful to everyone who helped to make this event an overwhelming success.

Sincerely yours,
Deborah Cipriani
Recreation Director

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

"Thank you, Town Manager, for respecting the town meeting attendees at the public forum."

Free speech does not mean dominating the mike with minutia. The number of words you say have no meaning against the quality they project."

—Wilmington

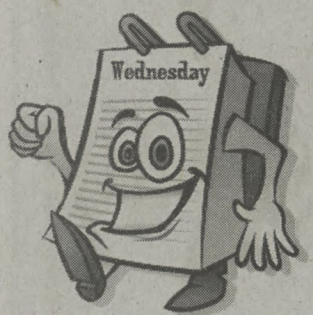

Thumbs Up to the Wilmington Police for offering the expired/unused drug drop off service. It was very convenient and good for the environment!

—Wilmington

Thumbs down to the person/persons who not only took ALL of our Halloween candy, but also decided to take the BOWL as well. We have used that bowl for trick or treat candy since my daughter was born, so we hope you enjoy it as much as we did. You forgot to take the table as well...maybe you can pick that up next year. Oh yeah...and Happy Halloween.

—Wilmington

I appreciate the fact that Joanne Benton takes the time to attend activities that involve the students in Wilmington, but please put the Blackberry away. You are more focused on your Blackberry than listening to Travis Roy, or the students at WHS during their English presentations or the young children during the walk around the Woburn Street School on Halloween. The School Committee just recently approved a new policy for electronic devices, maybe it should apply to the Superintendent too. —Wilmington

All donations will be delivered to Local Heroes in Wilmington for inclusion in care packages for our troops overseas.

No way. A large tree fell across Fiske Street in front of Michelle Jaremizin's home. Motorists chose to drive around the telephone pole onto her front lawn to avoid taking a detour.

OBITUARIES

John P. Arvanitis

Active in town with Scouts, youth sports, Methodist Church and Skirts & Flirts; US Army veteran

WILMINGTON - John P. Arvanitis, age 83, of Wilmington, passed away on October 31, 2011, at Winchester Hospital.

John was born on June 3, 1928, in Boston, MA, the dear son of the late Peter and Anthe (Drugas) Arvanitis. John grew up and was educated in Somerville, MA. Following high school, John was recruited into the United States Army during the Korean War. Upon his honorable discharge, he returned to Somerville and took a job as a milk man and then owned his own ice cream truck. It was during one of his ice cream stops that he met the love of his life, Dwyna Mattinson.

The couple married in 1953 and moved to Wilmington that same year, starting a long wonderful life together. John and Dwyna raised three great children in Wilmington and became very involved in the community. They enjoyed taking their children to their camp in Epsom, NH where they would swim in the summer and snow mobile in the winter.

He and Dwyna shared their love of the outdoors with their children, and created so many treasured memories with them while enjoying whatever season was upon them.

John was an active member of the Wilmington

United Methodist Church for many years, and served on the church Board of Trustees and was a member of the Methodist Men's Club. John was very involved with the Boy Scouts for many years and passed his love of scouting to his son John. When his son Peter started to play ice hockey, John volunteered his time to coach the team that was part of Wilmington Youth Hockey.

John was a devoted father, he loved his family unconditionally. No matter what his children were participating in at school or extra activities, he was there to lend a helping hand and to support them.

John always worked hard, putting all of his effort into the family plastering business that he owned and operated for many years before retiring. He was always putting around his own home and yard, especially in the garden that he thoroughly enjoyed.

He and Dwyna owned and operated the Epsom Valley Camp Ground in Epsom, NH for over forty years, building it up together from a vacant piece of land to a wonderful family campground. John took pride in tending to the many campsites and grounds for others to enjoy.

In his spare time, John loved to travel with his family and friends, he enjoyed taking many cruises to the Caribbean and Alaska, and wintering in Florida.

He loved to go square dancing with his wife Dwyna, they were "Pioneer" members of the Skirts and Flirts Square Dancing Club in Wilmington. John also liked following sports, especially the Red Sox.

Most of all, John enjoyed following his grandchildren, especially their sporting events. He loved being a grandfather and would go all over Massachusetts and New Hampshire to root his grandchildren on. He was very proud of all of their accomplishments, you could see it all over his face when he was with them or when he spoke of them. He was a cherished Papou to all seven of his grandchildren, and always had a smile and hug for each one of them.

John will be fondly remembered for his devotion to his family and friends, for his willingness to help others, and for his warm personality. He will be dearly missed.

John was the beloved husband of Dwyna A. (Mattinson) Arvanitis, devoted father of John B. Arvanitis and his wife Tracy of Wilmington, Carrie A. Whalley and her husband David of Southwick, and Peter D. Arvanitis and his wife Cherylann of Epsom, NH, loving grandfather of David Whalley, Rachel Garvey, Daniel Whalley, John Arvanitis, Emily Arvanitis, Katherine Arvanitis, Christopher Arvanitis, and great-grandson Ian Garvey, dear son of the late Peter and Anthe (Drugas) Arvanitis, brother of the late James Arvanitis and Debbie Serfes. John is also survived by many nieces, nephews, and friends.

Family and friends will gather for visiting hours at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Thursday, November 3rd from 4-8 p.m. John's Funeral Service will be held on Friday, November 4th at 10:00 a.m. in the Wilmington United Methodist Church, 87 Church St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Interment at the Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. It is the family's request that donations in John's memory be made to the Wilmington United Methodist Church.

Caring for trees in the wake of the storm

In the aftermath of a major storm, it's important for homeowners to assess damage and provide needed care for their trees, according to the nonprofit Arbor Day Foundation.

And in this case, patience is truly a virtue when dealing with storm-damaged trees.

"Trees are amazingly resilient and many recover over time with proper care," said John Rosenow, founder and chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation, America's largest organization dedicated to planting and caring for trees. "The urge to do something immediately is strong, but people should try to be patient. As long as there isn't an immediate physical risk from a damaged tree, many times it's best to keep the tree for now and determine the course of action later."

If a tree is not a hazard, take some time to make sure it gets the care it needs. In this case, Rosenow said, it's OK to wait a few weeks or months before a final decision is made on the fate of the tree.

According to the Arbor Day Foundation, a good rule of thumb on whether a tree can survive is it must still have at least 50 percent of its crown (branches and leaves). A tree with less than half of its branches remaining may not be able to produce enough foliage to nourish the tree another season.

If a tree requires immediate attention, the Arbor Day Foundation recommends hiring a qualified arborist. Arborists are recommended for work off the ground, if a tree is leaning against wires, structures or other trees, if utility lines or structures are endangered or if a chainsaw is needed.

Qualified arborists can be found under the "Tree Service" section of most telephone directories. To find an arborist that is certified by the International Society of Arboriculture, go to:

www.treesaregood.org/findtreeservices/FindTreeCareService.aspx?

"It's vital to make wise decisions about your trees because they will have long-term consequences," Rosenow said. "Don't be pressured by people knocking on your door with chainsaws offering to remove or repair your trees. Most of these door-to-door workers have no training and are looking to make a quick buck. It's best to use a qualified arborist."

More information about how to care for trees following a major storm, and resources that are available to media can be found at www.arborday.org.

Mahoney's "Trees for Troops" Christmas Tree campaign starts Veterans' Days

WINCHESTER - Members of the military and their families make many sacrifices, especially during the holidays. Starting this Veteran's Day, November 11, show your support and appreciation to an active member and their family, by donating a Christmas tree through the Trees for Troops program.

To participate in the Trees for Troops program, visit any of Mahoney's eight locations in eastern Massachusetts beginning November 11, and purchase a Trees for Troops tree for $24.50. Special tree cards are available to write a note of thanks or holiday wishes to the family.

On Sunday, December 4, the event ends. Mahoney's will collect all of the trees and notes, and prepare them for their journey. The Trees for Troops program, in coordination with FedEx, handles the rest. In December, thousands of trees from all over the United States will be delivered to families on 52 military bases, worldwide.

The simple gesture of buying a tree means much more to a military family. "It's a sense of knowing that someone else cares," notes Lori DeVincentis Bruschi, Marketing Director for Family, Morale, Welfare and Recreation at Fort Bragg Garrison in North Carolina.

"These men and women risk their lives for their country. The holidays are especially tough on the families, especially those left behind. This relieves some of the stress from the holidays," adds Bruschi.

According to Bruschi, she recalls a previous year where the trees ran out with many families still in line. The next day, Trees for Troops performed a miracle and brought another truckload of trees. "One woman, with tears in her eyes, thanked us for getting more trees. She was the wife of a soldier who was deployed, but would make it home for the Holidays. The tree was a surprise for him."

Last year, Mahoney's trees were shipped up and down the east coast to Coast Guard Stations, a Navy Station and a National Guard Station. This year, Mahoney's trees are planned for a similar route, including the Boston Coast Guard Station.

Since 2005, the Trees for Troops program, in coordination with FedEx, has delivered trees to over 84,000 families at over 60 bases world-wide. The special Trees for Troops trees were donated from over 40 retail locations and farms, like Mahoney's, in 29 states.

Help Trees for Troops reach their goal of shipping their 100,000th tree by becoming part of this world-wide tradition. Mahoney's Garden Centers contributes an additional $5 for every tree sold to the Christmas SPIRIT foundation.

Visit any one of Mahoney's eight Massachusetts locations in Winchester, Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Falmouth, Brighton, Osterville, Concord and Wayland between November 11 and December 4 to donate a tree to the Trees for Troops program. Trees come from Mahoney's-own tree farm in Nova Scotia. They are carefully fertilized and sheared for best shape and density, then cut at the very last moment to ensure the longest lasting tree. For more information visit www.mahoneysgarden.com or call (781) 729-5900.

WCTV's Don Leard has his eye on the town

WCTV Volunteer Spotlight: Don & Ron

WCTV is sending out a big thanks to our volunteer team Don & Ron. Don Leard and Ron Buccheri have been recording the Selectmen, School Committee and annual Town meetings for more than 17 years! And that's not all they do; they are also volunteers in the many locally produced shows we air at WCTV including "Sports Forum."

Ron came to WCTV as a volunteer in 1994 after a long history in television at WGBH. "When public access came along, it allowed people to participate in the community on a local level, and I think that's a great thing," Ron said.

Buccheri decided to become involved at WCTV because of the ability to tape the town meetings.

"We are just there to help the community at large to be at these meetings without physically being there," Ron said. "It helps people stay connected to the important issues in our community."

Leard became a volunteer in 1992 to get involved in the community and to learn more about the television medium. Don worked as a commercial artist since graduating from college at the Vesper George School of Art in Boston. He has worked for companies such as Big Dig and Rust Craft Greeting Cards.

Don and Ron met while taking classes at WCTV and teamed up to shoot the town meetings. They have become so well known as a team that they have been labeled "The Don & Ron Show" here at WCTV.

"If you see Don operating a camera, you will see Ron working audio with his headphones on," Sandra Curtin, WCTV Executive Director, said.

Don and Ron get plenty of exercise lugging the mobile broadcast and transmission equipment from our offices on Waltham Street to all of the meetings, setting it all up before the meetings, taking it down afterward and returning it to WCTV every time.

Next year, Don and Ron will have to find a different exercise routine because we will be installing permanent equipment in Room 9 as we move to point-to-point, high quality digital video over the internet. After all, Don and Ron have done such a great job over the years, we want to make it as easy as possible for them to do what they love: serve our community.

Illuminate a tree light during the holiday season

Proceeds from Tree of Lights benefit Read-to-Me program

WINCHESTER - Illuminate a tree light at Winchester Hospital during the holiday season to honor someone you love or celebrate a special event.

All proceeds directly support the Friends of Winchester Hospital's Read-to-Me Program, which gives a new story book to each baby born at Winchester Hospital to encourage reading to children.

The tree lighting ceremony, which includes a reading of the names and caroling, will take place on Sunday, December 4 at 4:00 p.m. in the lobby of Winchester Hospital, 41 Highland Avenue in Winchester. A reception will follow.

For information on participating in the Tree of Lights through a tax-deductible gift, call Jillian Buttaro in Winchester Hospital's Volunteer Services Department at (781) 756-2625 or e-mail her at jbuttaro@winhosp.org. The deadline is Tuesday, November 29.

Winchester Hospital is the first community hospital in Massachusetts to earn Magnet recognition, the American Nurses Credentialing Center's highest honor for nursing excellence. general, bariatric and vascular surgery, orthopedics, cardiology, pulmonary medicine, oncology, radiation oncology, gastroenterology, urology, gynecologic urology, rehabilitation, pain management, obstetrics/gynecology, pediatrics and a Level IIB Special Care Nursery. Representative Murphy announces passage of non-profit deferred compensation plan

BOSTON -Representative Charles A. Murphy joined his colleagues in the Massachusetts House of Representatives in passing legislation that allows the State Treasurer's office to offer a tax-deferred retirement savings plan to employees of non-profit organizations.

"Unfortunately many non-profit organizations are unable to offer their employees the retirement savings options they deserve," said Representative Murphy. "Employees of these organizations often work long, irregular hours in difficult situations for minimal pay. I am pleased that the House of Representatives and Treasurer Grossman have taken this important step towards assisting these dedicated and deserving individuals."

According to the Boston Foundation, 56% of grassroots organizations with budgets smaller than $250,000 don't offer any sort of retirement plan to their employees; Fourteen percent of our state's workforce are in the non-profit sector. Pending final passage of this bill, the State Treasury plans to work with the Internal Revenue Service to establish a solid retirement savings program that would be made available to all of the non-profit organizations in our Commonwealth, a welcome change considering that statistic.

The retirement savings plan that the State Treasury is aspiring to create would be similar to a 401(k) or a 403(b). The plan that will be established for NPOs will deduct pre-tax dollars from an employee's paycheck and invest them in a tax deferred market portfolio. The Treasurer's Office would administer the participant-funded plan at no cost to taxpayers.

Approved by the House, this bill is now on its way to the Senate and then Governor Deval Patrick for further approval.

ing 21st-century skills, not only within the classroom but within the facility," said Tracy. "We thought now would be an appropriate time to develop those skills."

Tracy said administrators and teachers look forward to continuing to expand technological skills.

The NEASC recommendations, he said, are on track.

Tracy said Special Education inclusion is more of a blind goal. But, he said, there is an overlap with MCAS.

"Many of the issues that we have at the high school related to MCAS are related to self-contained students," he said.

Some courses will be team-taught, in that a special education-certified teacher would follow-up with students that have Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) to review ideas presented during the day.

Tracy said this approach was tried in the past and was successful.

Christine McMenimen, Principal of the Wilmington Middle School, spoke next about improving MCAS scores, implementing Common Core State Standards, and the use of technology.

Eighth-grade MCAS scores have been an issue.

"We're trying to figure out what it is that's going on," said Benton. She said students in 9th grade should be examined in order to see who is having trouble in mathematics.

Both McMenimen and Benton, who said staff members took the eighth grade MCAS exam to see where students could be having problems, said educators must work across the curriculum to reach out to students in need.

School Committee Chair Peggy Kane spoke to remind residents that the issues were not with the entirety of the eighth grade, but with a small percentage of students.

To improve, McMenimen said students should tie their accountability into the test. Teaching, also, is another critical component.

Frank Ferrio, Principal of the North Intermediate

School, and Dennis Shaw, Principal of the West Intermediate School, discussed their goals, which included math, English language arts (ELA), and social issues.

Both Ferrio and Shaw told the Committee that bullying had declined in their schools. Educators had implemented various anti-bullying and social pragmatics programs, such as Peer Mediation and Second Step, to counteract bullying issues.

The Second Step program aims to teach students empathy, de-escalation techniques, how to deal with difficult situations, and create a bond between the classroom teacher and the student while encouraging conversation.

Robert Arsenault, Principal of the Woburn Street School, and Robert Appolloni, Principal of the Boutwell Early Childhood Center, discussed developing the Response to Intervention program.

The School Committee will hold its next meeting on November 9.

tified power outages in Wilmington, which amounted to about 600 customers. She said that there were also about 100 individual services out of power, which affected about 700 customers.

Crews have come from Marblehead and Danvers to assist. Tree crews have come from as far away as Maine and Vermont to assist with power restoration.

"This will take days to repair," said Sullivan, who called Regional Coordinator Scott Edward in Littleton for mutual aid from other municipalities. Similarly, aid had also been requested from the Worcester area and western Massachusetts.

Power line crews assisted in the overall restoration efforts, Gottwald said, adding that crews split their work into sections addressing different groupings of streets each day.

Power is expected to be fully restored by Thursday.

Wilmington Public Schools were open Monday, unlike most neighboring communities, and Halloween Trick-or-Treating activities in full swing Monday evening. Many Wilmington youngsters joined by friends from Tewksbury and other harder hit communities.

Dropping just a few inches of heavy, wet snow on trees in full fall foliage was a recipe for disaster. By Tuesday evening President Barack Obama authorized an Emergency Declaration in Massachusetts, making direct federal disaster assistance available to the Commonwealth to assist local communities, eligible private non-profit organizations, and state agencies impacted by the heavy snow, damaging winds, and significant power outages resulting from the historic late October Nor'easter. The eight (8) counties that have been included in this emergency declaration include Berkshire, Essex, Franklin, Hampden, Hampshire, Middlesex, Norfolk and Worcester counties.

With the federal disaster declaration, the Commonwealth is afforded access to Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) personnel, technical assistance and a 75/25 federal-state split on the purchase costs of materials utilized to provide protective measures for the storm within the eight designated counties.

Unique ending with Adam and Justin Colella in collegiate soccer game

Brothers square off against one another

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The scenario had played itself out hundreds of times in their backyard in Wilmington over the years. Justin Colella was lined up to take a penalty kick against his little brother Adam. Their parents were watching, rooting for both boys to somehow be successful, and for just a moment nothing else in the world mattered except the result of the kick.

Except this time they Colella boys were no longer in their backyard and they weren't even actually boys anymore. Instead, it was two young men lining up against each other last Tuesday when Justin, a senior defender playing for St. Anselm lined up his shot against Adam, a freshman goalie for Stonehill College.

Indeed, the boys parents were still watching, this time from the stands, as they eagerly anticipated the best possible result for both boys. And indeed for a moment nothing else in the world mattered except the result of the kick.

As it turned out, the result was probably about as good as good have been hoped for, as Justin rifled a shot just out of Adam's reach, so close in fact that Adam actually got a hand on it before it hit the back of the net to give Justin his team's only goal of the game, as Stonehill went on to a 3-1 victory over St. Anselm.

Amazingly, not only was Justin's shot on Adam the first time he had taken a penalty kick against his brother in a game, it was actually the first time they had ever been on the same soccer field for a game.

It was an experience that neither brother, both of whom attended St. John's Prep, is likely to forget any time soon. For Justin, it was already a big night, as it was senior night at St. Anselm's, but facing Adam in the opposing night made it even bigger.

"When we were doing warm-ups I tried to avoid looking at him because I know it would have thrown me off because I would have started thinking about it," Justin said. "I did not even look at him until I glanced at him during the national anthem. When I finally did look up it was a very humbling experience for me. To be playing against him was sort of a surreal experience."

For Adam, the experience was equally humbling as he knew he would be going against the older brother who he had looked up to growing up.

"Growing up I used to go to his games on the weekend and it was always my dream to play with him or against him and I knew when I got to Stonehill that I would have a chance to play against him," Adam said. "The whole thing was sort of surreal. When he was getting ready for the penalty kick, it was like I was watching him try and score on someone else, but it was actually me in net."

On the dramatic penalty kick, which came at the 68:10 mark with Stonehill holding a 3-0 advantage, both brothers actually came through with big plays, as Adam guessed right and moved to where Justin was aiming, but Justin got just enough on it to put it past Adam and into the net.

Of course, with Adam's team ultimately winning the game and with Justin winning the penalty shot battle, both were able to go home at least somewhat happy, although Justin would have much preferred to win in his last home game with St. Anselm's.

"I guess it was the perfect situation for everybody, and our parents especially," Justin said. "It turns out to be a win-win for us. We both get a little bit of bragging rights."

Field Hockey team to face Marblehead in tourney opener

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the third straight season, the Wilmington High School Field Hockey team has qualified for the state tournament, and for the second time in the past three years the Wildcats will host a first round game.

On Thursday night at 6:00 pm at Alumni Stadium, the No. 6 seed Wildcats (12-4-2) will take on the No. 11 seed Marblehead Magicians (10-4-4) in the opening round of the MIAA Division 2 North Sectional tournament.

Last year Wilmington finished the regular season with an 9-7-3 record and were defeated in the first round of the tournament by then league opponent Newburyport, 2-0. In 2009, the Wildcats finished with a 12-3-4 record and were seeded seventh and defeated Swampscott 1-0 in the first round of the tournament at home, before losing to sectional champion Watertown, 7-1 in the quarterfinal round. That first round win was the first for the program since the early 1990s, and this being the third straight state tournament appearance for head coach Jodi Campbell, also hasn't happened since 1991-'93 under then head coach Jan Cassidy-Wood.

This year's feat is certainly is nothing to sneeze at. After all the Wildcats lost 11 players from last year's team, and also were moved into a much better division playing in the Middlesex League. Three ML teams are in the Division 2 bracket (while two more are in the Division 1 bracket) with Wilmington, including Watertown at No. 1, Belmont at No. 2 and Winchester at No. 4. Two weeks ago, Wilmington tied Watertown, 2-2, and that's the only blemish on the Red Raiders' record as they enter as the top seed and a 17-0-1 mark. Wilmington wouldn't face Watertown until the sectional final, so before anyone can think rematch, it starts with Marblehead on Thursday.

"I'm not sure I can say I know too much about Marblehead," said Campbell. "I only know that they did lose quite a bit of seniors, but their underclassmen, like ours, have filled some pretty big shoes and have brought the team to a winning season. You can never tell how a team will be in the tournament; the adrenaline rush for any team makes for a great game, and I'm positive that this will be a good game watch."

Should Wilmington defeat Marblehead in the first round, it would then play the winner of Belmont and North Reading on Saturday with the time to be announced. If Belmont, the No. 3 seed defeats NR, Wilmington would travel to Belmont High, but if North Reading, the No. 14 seed, pulls out the upset, the Wildcats would host a second round game as well.

Two years ago, Wilmington brought a huge and loud crowd to the field in the exciting win over Swampscott. Now getting into the tournament for the third straight season is quite a feat.

"Getting into the tourna-

ment for the third straight year definitely makes everything you worked for throughout the season well worth it," said Campbell. "At the beginning of the season you don't harp so much on the tournament and the seeding, but as you approach mid season it definitely motivates the team to keep moving forward and to work hard every day."

The Wildcats have had a nice blend of offense and defense throughout the season. Offensively, Cristina Wilson, Shelly Sullivan, Emily Colisimo and Amanda Richards have all figured in the scoring, and defensively it's been Courtney Cavanaugh and Jill Hery leading the way, while Rynne Newhouse has been everywhere on the field, really emerging with the offense, the midfield play, defensively and been a big factor on both offensive and defensive corners. Having the entire team come together for 12 wins and a state tournament berth has certainly been a pleasant surprise for Campbell.

"To be honest, I didn't know what to expect for this season, however, now looking back on a few games that I know we could have won, you can't help but wonder 'what if' and knowing the bracket could have fallen a little bit different," she said. "But overall, I am pleased with our season, and am very impressed as to how this team has pulled together. We lost some key players from last year, and I felt they were some pretty big shoes to fill, but this group has filled them quite nicely and this team has definitely set some goals for future teams."

And one of those goals is to win as many state tournament games as possible, starting with Thursday's match-up.

"Like any game, we will need to come out right away and play to the best of our ability," said Campbell. "Sitting back and waiting will not be an option for us to get the win."

Cavanaugh emerges on defensive line

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the past five years, Courtney Cavanaugh has been a babysitter for a young girl, now age seven, who Cavanaugh says has taught her so much about life, hope and cherishing every moment you have on this Earth. So perhaps that's why Cavanaugh has been such an incredible leader, both on and off the field as a tri-captain of the Wilmington High School Field Hockey team.

Cavanaugh and company just finished up a remarkable regular season that saw the Wildcats finish with a 12-4-2 overall record, good for second place in the Middlesex League Small School standings. The successful season also put the Wildcats into the post season for the third consecutive time -- Wilmington, the No. 6 seed, will play host to the No. 11 seed Marblehead Magicians in the first round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament to be played at WHS Thursday night at 6:00 pm. And for Cavanaugh, she is all about cherishing the 60 minutes that lies ahead (and hopefully more with a win on Thursday).

"Oh I can't wait for the game," she said. "I've been dreading these practices and 'I'm like OK let's go'."

Last year Cavanaugh was part of another successful Wildcat team. The 2010 squad finished 9-7-3 including a first round loss in the tournament. During that season, Cavanaugh played an outside defensive back position, switching off with current teammate Jill Hery. Now a year later, and with eleven seniors gone from that team, Cavanaugh has taken on a completely different role as the team's stopper-back, being the one player who stands before the team's goalie. And with a 12-4-2 record, which includes a heroic 2-2 tie with the two-time defending state champion Watertown squad, you can certainly figure out that Cavanaugh has had a lot to do with the success of this year's Wildcat club.

"I can't say enough about Courtney," said head coach Jodi Campbell. "She has truly become the meaning of a captain. She is motivating, inspirational, supportive, and just down right a good person. Her dedication on defense is indescribable. She has just done a phenomenal job. She is a strong player who is unbeatable. Those are HUGE shoes to be filled next year. I can not be happier with her game this season."

Last year Cavanaugh was a solid role player - switching off with her buddy Hery. She was tough, played hard and did her job. But this season is completely different. She's an Ace back there, very powerful and her skill level has drastically improved.

"As a freshman, I started on the Freshmen team, and then my sophomore year I played JV but was able to swing a few games on varsity," she recalled. "Last year I played varsity and switched with Jill and usually played half of a game. This year it's been different. I love being the last person before the goalie. The thrill of that is just awesome. Field Hockey has become my favorite sport and I just love to play the game, I love to be back there on defense and I just love being a part

WHS Boys Soccer on verge of qualifying Comeback kids need one more win

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The last time the Wilmington High School Boys Soccer team failed to make it to state tournament play was 2004. That was the season when it all came down to the final regular season game against Tewksbury, where both teams needed a win to reach the tournament and the game ended in a 2-2 tie.

Well on Wednesday afternoon as this paper was being constructed, Wilmington and Tewksbury were facing each other again, and for the Wildcats their tournament fate is once again met by the Redmen. The Wildcats, who have rallied and played terrific over the last two weeks, have to defeat the two-win Redmen club in order to qualify for the Division 2 North tournament for the seventh straight year and tenth time in the 11 years Steve Scanlon has been behind the bench.

"Things really looked bleak for us but these kids keep coming back," said Scanlon. "When we were 3-6, we could've easily packed our bags and gone home. But instead the kids kept getting better and better each week, and now we have a chance. We need a win - we can't afford a tie and we're in with a 6-6-6 record. Anything is possible whenever we play Tewksbury - I mean look at last year's 7-5 game."

Wilmington was put in the position of a must-win against Tewksbury after ending in a 1-1 tie with Stoneham which came after a 1-0 win over Burlington. The point against Stoneham certainly was an incredible point for several reasons.

"We were bumped from their varsity field to the JV field because no one could stand up on the varsity field because it was so slick," said Scanlon. "So we played on the much smaller field and both teams are very physical, so as soon as you turned around, you couldn't do much of anything."

Wilmington got on the scoreboard first as Jamie Mara fed Drew Foley in with a beautiful through ball and the sophomore tucked the ball home on a nice shot to the low right hand corner. Stoneham then carried the play and with 13 minutes left, they thought they had the equalizer goal but keeper Luke Foley made an absolutely crazy, tip diving save on a labeled shot heading to the top corner keeping it 1-0. Stoneham did get one past Foley, scoring on a nice shot coming from a long throw in with two or three minutes later. Then with three minutes to go, Stoneham thought it had the chance to pull through with a second goal but the play was ruled offside, and the two teams ended in the 1-1 tie.

"That was such a battle," said Scanlon. "It was a very physical game with guys going down everywhere. I'm proud of my kids. They battled and battled."

Two days earlier, Wilmington edged out Burlington 1-0. Drew Foley set up the game winner taking a corner kick and finding Colin Doherty, who cracked one to the back of the net in the 67th minute. Luke Foley turned away five shots to record the shut out, his third of the season. Drew Foley, as well as defenders Kory McGilvray, Connor Townsend, Jared Walsh and Tom Bromann, all played very strong games in front of the keeper.

"The kids have done a real good job over these last two weeks," said Scanlon. "We have played tournament-type games. We played a big-time game against Stoneham and we're not 3-0-3 in our last six games. Hopefully we can keep it going and take care of business with Tewksbury and get into the tournament."

If that happens, Scanlon believes his team could make some unexpected noise.

"If we get in, I think we would be a very tough draw," he said. "I think there could be as many as 22 teams getting in so it would depend on your draw, but I think we are as battle tested as we could be. We have been in survival mode for the last two weeks and I think we might be able to catch some teams. I think we would be a handful. I mean we gave Winchester, who will be the number one seed, everything they could handle. We lost 1-0 in a game that should have ended in a tie. We carried play for a lot of that game.

"I think our offense has been much better and we have come through with some timely goals and we've been better defensively. I think we have been maturing as a team and we have learned how to manage a game. We're not making silly mistakes and we're not panicking. We have been digging in to get one or two goals a game and we've been successful. I think the sophomores are coming of age and we've played much better."

Last year the Wildcats finished 11-5-3 and were eliminated in the first round of the state tournament by Malden Catholic, 1-0 in overtime. The year before the Wildcats finished 18-1-3 advancing to the sectional final with wins over Wayland, Winchester and North Andover, before losing to the eventual state champions from Concord-Carlisle.

Wildcat Girls grab (atleast a) share of small school title

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

In a matter of hours, the Wilmington High School Girls' Soccer team will have played a game -- hoping to end Shawsheen Tech's perfect season -- find out if they are outright or co-champions of the Middlesex League Division 2 Conference, and find out who their first opponent will be in the Division 2 North Sectional tournament. All of that will come on Wednesday afternoon as this paper is being constructed.

The Wildcats were supposed to play Shawsheen Tech on Tuesday afternoon, Senior Night at home before the Boys team faced Tewksbury. But the Girls game got pushed back to Wednesday afternoon because of the weekend's Nor'Easter as fields are still under snow or water. As of Tuesday night, Shawsheen had a perfect 16-0-0 record under Wilmington resident Doug Michaud. That Wilmington-Shawsheen Tech game will have implications on where Wilmington will be seeded in the state tournament when pairings are announced late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. But that contest won't have implications or whether or not Wilmington will have the ML Division 2 title to themselves or share it with Stoneham. The Wildcats grabbed at least a share of the title last week with a 3-0 win over Burlington, giving Wilmington a 7-1-2 league record. Stoneham stands at 6-1-2 and have one game left against Watertown, who is winless against league foes.

"I don't foresee Watertown pulling out the upset but you never know," said head coach Sue Hendee. "But if that game isn't played, I don't know what will happen (in terms of crowning a division crown)."

For Wilmington, getting at least a share of the league title is a tremendous accomplishment -- after all the team finished last year with a record of 3-10-5 including being shut out seven times. Not only did Wilmington at least triple that win total with its current 9-4-4 record, but have qualified for the state tournament for the first since 2007. Hendee added that she thought as many as 20 teams have also qualified for this year's tournament with Newburyport, Belmont, Stoneham and Dracut as the frontrunners and Wilmington in the next tier, thus perhaps the Wildcats will host a first round game. But before the pairings are announced, the veteran coach knows that when it comes to Division 2 North soccer, it's very tough from top to bottom.

"I think every team that qualifies in Division 2 is a quality team, even those who have a .500 record or are just barely over .500," she said. "I think those teams always have the potential to be very dangerous. It's all going to matter on the luck of the draw - I just hope we don't get someone from our league. I'd like to play someone different. We have no control of that, but I think with the teams that I know that are going, you're going to see a lot of very close games. You got to go out and see what happens, but hopefully we can get at least one home game."

Wilmington's prior three tournament appearances have all ended in the first round with Belmont twice in 2006 and '07, and before that was Arlington in 2005. In 2004, Wilmington defeated Wakefield in the first round of the tournament at home before losing in the second round. Hendee is hoping that her team can end that streak.

"I think we just need to put together 80 solid minutes of soccer," she said. "I have seen this team play 17 games and they have the potential to play with everyone. I mean look at what we have done against some of the top 20 ranked teams from the Boston Globe. We tied Lexington, who just beat Central Catholic and we had some other great battles with other top teams. I think the Middlesex League has prepared us for that next step, but unfortunately we are going to see some of those same Middlesex League teams in the tournament. I think if we can put together 80 solid minutes, keep our composure, especially in the middle of the field, and keep our composure looking to pass to feet, we're going to be successful."

In the win over Burlington, Rachel Grabar, Jackie Kennedy and Holly Niemiec scored one goal each, while, Kaitlyn Curley and Alex Bischoff added one assist each. Senior keeper Sarah Luz recorded her third straight shutout and sixth shutout overall this season.

Senior forward leads team with 15 points

Grabar attacks like a ferocious animal

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It seems only fitting that Rachel Grabar wants to study animal science next year in college with dreams of becoming a veterinarian. That's being said because if you watched her play soccer the last three years she reminded you of a rabbit - very fast, but kind of hopped around in different areas of the fields. But if you watched her this year, she's like a Cheetah -- extremely fast, focused and lethal on anything that comes her way.

Grabar always had the speed the last three years but was missing an important ingredient with her game. This year is much different. The senior tri-captain leads the Wildcats in scoring with nine goals and six assists in 17 games, helping Wilmington grab a share of the Middlesex League Division 2 Championship title. She has been one of the big reasons why the team has turned a three win season from a year ago into a 9-4-4 mark with one regular season remaining, all the while qualify for the state tournament for the first time since 2007 when Grabar was in middle school and chewing on carrots during recess break.

"I think that was just a matter of confidence," said Grabar about the difference in play. "Freshmen year I was so scared and afraid of playing. I got hurt and then got hurt again my sophomore year. I think this year I just gained confidence. I also worked out with (teammate) Alexa Brown during the summer with fitness and I just got a year older and more confident. Plus I think the new (offensive) formation we have this year has a lot to do it. I know where the cross (passes) will go, I have a better understanding of where the shots will come from and just getting used to playing with everyone one more year has definitely helped as well."

After the Wildcats struggled to score goals in each of the past two years, resulting in two very tough seasons, head coach Sue Hendee decided to change her formation and put a third attacker on the field to go along with three midfielders. She said that the big reason for that was the much improved skill level of her midfielders and that certainly has been proven this season. And while girls like Holly Niemiec and Kaitlyn Curley have been instrumental in building up the offense through the middle of the field, it's Grabar and company who nail the coffins shut.

"The two outside forwards Alex Bischoff and Jackie Kennedy have been great and the outside support we all get is just awesome," said Grabar. "The three midfielders just add so much pressure and it has helped lead us to more scoring opportunities."

Throughout the entire season Grabar has come through with a handful of key goals, none bigger than the game tying tally in the 2-2 tie against Lexington, one of the top teams in all of Eastern Mass.

"I don't think anyone at that time realized how important of a game that was," she said. "That game brought us out (from the cellar). I don't think any of us realized how good they were going to be. We played some other real good games against Belmont, Stoneham and Melrose too. I remember coach Hendee telling us in the off-season how much harder it was going to be for us in the Middlesex League. So I think it's very surprising that we have done this well, making states and everything."

Entering this season, Hendee really didn't know what to expect out of her team. She knew that her team had great potential, but finding goal scorers against tougher teams certainly wasn't going to happen over night. But it did happen in about a week of play.

"Rachel has had a great, great season," said Hendee. "She's obviously our most consistent scorer. She has nine goals and six assists - she has scored a goal or assisted on one in 12 of the 17 games we've played this season. And when we've been shut out she has had several quality chances to score."

Certainly Grabar has improved drastically with finishing scoring chances this season, but her overall game has gone through the roof -- her overall play has gone from slapping a single to left field to belting a game winning walk-off home run like David Freese did last week for the World Champion Cardinals.

"Rachel makes it look so easy," said Hendee. "She may not have super, super speed but she always gets to the ball. She may not be super aggressive, but she has a great head with the ball. She's just always in the right place at the right time. If Rachel has the ball in front of a net, she's a very dangerous player."

Grabar is hoping that will be the case when the Wildcats wrap up the regular season against the undefeated Shawsheen Tech Rams before entering the state tournament.

"I'm very happy to have score nine goals, and coach gives us a sticker for each goal we score so I have nine up on my locker right now," she said. "I'm hoping to get more with the Shawsheen Tech game and then the state tournament. My goal is to get 12."

Rachel Grabar is a young girl who is all about reaching her goals so getting 12 or helping the team win a state tournament game for the first time since 2004 certainly isn't out of reach. Besides being a goal scorer and a captain of the Girls' Soccer team, she is a member of the National Honor Society, a member of a number of other clubs and organizations in the school, ranks 35th in her academic class, works at a nursing home and has volunteered at Animal Hospitals. Talk about your All-American kid who hops around in bowls of success.

Eighth grader takes fourth at League Meet

The Wilmington High School Boys and Girls Cross Country team participated in their first ever Middlesex League Championship Meet held Tuesday afternoon at Woburn Country Club. Both teams did about what was expected but one aspect that couldn't have been expected was the performance of eighth grader Callie O'Connell of the Girls' team, who finished fourth in the entire race, finishing behind three Lexington runners, including the individual champion Sarah Foster was just 11 seconds. O'Connell finished the race with a time of 15:52.

O'Connell helped lead Wilmington to a seventh place finish with 153 points as the Wildcats were four points away from finishing in fourth place. Lexington ran away with the title with 43 points with Reading and Belmont taking second and third.

Finishing behind O'Connell was Sydnee Russo, who was 31st at 17:22, while Keara MacCorkle was a second behind her for 32nd place. Kate Richardson was next for the Wildcats as she was 44th at 17:43. Rounding out the team's final three runners were Nicole Romanzo (52nd, 17:56), Maeve Sullivan (61st, 18:26) and Michelle Barnes (65th, 18:30).

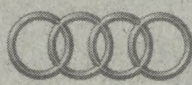

Turning to the Boys' team, the Wildcats finished in 8th place with 202 points. Wakefield won the team competition followed by Lexington and Reading for second and third. Erik Alatalo was the team's top performer as he came in 20th overall at 13:33, followed by Andrew Sears 48th at 14:32, Steve Halas 50th at 14:40, Chris Monteforte 70th at 15:33 and Justin Larosa, 78th at 16:09.

Wildcats get back on track with upset win

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High Football team sent a strong message to the rest of the Middlesex League Small School Division on Friday night. The message being that even though they might be newcomers, they have every intention of having a say in who wins the championship in their first season in their new league.

The Wildcats, led by their dynamic senior duo of running back John Parsons and quarterback Matt Ferreira, threw a wrench into the league standings, stunning Middlesex Small rival Melrose with a 19-14 victory at a raucous Alumni Field when Ferreira scored on a keeper with just under two minutes remaining.

Ferreira's touchdown, from five yards out with 1:55 left in the game capped a dramatic 47 yard final drive for the Wildcats in a game where they led 13-0 late in the second quarter, but found themselves trailing 14-13 for much of the second half.

The win improved Wilmington to 4-3 on the season and 2-1 in the Middlesex Small, while Melrose dropped to 6-2 overall (1-2). The win sets up the Wildcats for some very big games in the coming weeks, starting next week with a home contest against another Middlesex Small rival, Watertown.

It was the second win in a row for the Wildcats after suffering a three game losing streak, and coach Mike

Barry has seen his team play recently more like the team he expected going into the season.

"As I told people earlier in the year, I didn't think we had played our best football yet," Barry said. "Tonight I think we played our best game of the year on offense and defense."

Melrose had entered the game with their only loss of the season coming two weeks ago in a 21-20 setback to an undefeated Burlington team, who incidentally, the Wildcats will meet on November 4th in Burlington.

It was Parsons and Ferreira who led the Wildcats on their dramatic final drive, which started with 4:30 left in the game on the Melrose 47 yard line. Parsons got things started with an eight yard run which was followed by a 13 yard run by Ferreira to give them a first down at the Melrose 26 yard line. Two plays later came the play of the game for the Wildcats, when Parsons connected with Ferreira on a perfectly executed option pass for a 21 yard gain down to the five yard line.

After no gain on first and goal, Ferreira sprinted to the left and into the zone for a 19-14 lead on second and goal. An illegal procedure penalty on the Wildcats moved them back five yards for their two point conversion try which failed, giving the Red Raiders a chance to score the winning touchdown.

But junior defensive back Tim Woods, who had three interceptions in the game came up with two big picks for the Wildcats in the final two minutes of the game to seal the win for Wilmington.

The first pick, his second of the game, came on the first on the first play from scrimmage for the Red Raiders after the Wilmington touchdown, as he made a great leaping catch on the sideline to return the ball to the Wildcats.

Melrose still had a chance, however, as after they held the Wildcats to a three and out, they took over at their 40 yard line with 1:09 left and no timeouts. Melrose picked up one first down at the Wildcats 45 yard line, but Woods sealed the win on the next play with another interception.

"Timmy goes to the ball really well and he can jump," Barry said. "He's a great athlete and he's a smart player as well. We tell everybody to go to the ball, and Timmy does a great job of doing it."

The Wildcats had taken a 13-0 lead by scoring on their first two possessions of the game. Their first score came on an 11 play, 59 yard drive that was capped by a six yard run by Parsons (18 carries, 106 yards) with 2:24 left in the first quarter.

In a preview of the later game winning drive, it was Parsons and Ferreira who led the way for the Wildcats, rushing for a combined 58 of the 59 yards on the drive.

Wilmington's second score came on a 40 yard run by Parsons with 3:54 left in the half. The highlight of the drive was a 34 yard pass from Ferreira that Woods hauled in at the 50 yard line on a great diving catch.

The extra point failed after the second touchdown to leave the score at 13-0.

It looked like that's the way the teams would go to the half, but with less than a minute left in the half the Wildcats were stopped on a fourth and one attempt at their own 42 yard line.

Initially, the Wildcats had attempted to draw Melrose offside with a hard count, but when that failed they called a timeout and attempted to pick up the first down on a sneak by Ferreira.

He was stopped short, however, and three plays later, aided partially by a pass interference call against the Wildcats, Melrose scored their first touchdown of the game on a five yard run by junior quarterback Bryan Reale with 13 seconds left in the half. Matt Desimone's extra point made it 13-7.

"We should have punted," Barry said. "I wanted to get some momentum and I thought we could get the first down. It didn't work, but the kids ended up covering for me by getting the win."

Reale would strike again just moments into the second half, this time on a 65-yard run that gave the Red Raiders a 14-13 lead with 8:50 left in the third quarter.

It looked like that score was going to hold up as the game winner, but the Wildcats had other ideas, giving their coach reason to take great pride in his squad.

"I think they started to turn their season around last week and tonight was just another step," Barry said. "Even at 3-3 going into this game I think a lot of people had questions about us. Tonight they showed a lot of character. I am very proud of these kids. If you can't be proud of this group of kids then you shouldn't be coaching."

The Wildcats will look to continue their winning ways on Friday night at Alumni Field in their final home game of the season when they host Middlesex Small rival Watertown at 7:00.

Watertown comes into the game with an overall record of 6-2, while they are 1-2 in the Middlesex Small after a 44-12 loss to Burlington last week. It was their second loss in a row, as two weeks ago the Red Raiders fell to Melrose by a score of 35-7. Their lone league win came against Stoneham in Week 6 by a score of 27-14.

Junior quarterback Joey Farrar has thrown seven touchdown passes for the Red Raiders while rushing for four more, while senior Giovanni Ortiz has caught six of Farrar's touchdown passes and run for five more.

When Wilmington High junior Tim Woods picked off a Melrose pass with 19 seconds left to seal the Wildcats upset win over the Red Raiders on Friday night, it was his sixth catch of the night. Unfortunately for Melrose, it was also his third of the night from a Red Raiders quarterback.

Woods, a wide receiver/defensive back for the Wildcats hauled in three passes from Wilmington quarterback Matt Ferreira for 48 yards, including a spectacular 34 yard diving catch in the second quarter, but his biggest contributions came in his three interceptions on defense.

Woods picked off a Melrose pass in the end zone in the second quarter to thwart a potential touchdown, and he later came up with two interceptions in the final two minutes of the game to seal the win for the Wildcats.

"What a great game Tim had," Wilmington coach Mike Barry said. "I mean, three interceptions, plus what he did on offense. Just a great game. He was all over the field for us tonight."

Woods' big night began midway through the second quarter on the Wildcats second possession of the game. The Wildcats had taken over backed up on their 16 yard line, but it took just one play to get out of the hole when Ferreira connected with Woods on a 34-yard pass that Woods laid out to haul in at midfield and then held on to as he hit the cold ground below.

"We have been running the ball real well the past few games so we knew they would want to stop the run," Woods said. "That allowed me to get open and make a big play."

His great defensive night began with just over two minutes left in the first half with the Wildcats holding a 13-0 lead, but with Melrose threatening to score their first touchdown of the night with the ball on the Wilmington 20 yard line.

The Melrose quarterback tried to connect with a receiver in the end zone, but Woods stepped in front of the intended receiver and came up with a nice catch to thwart the drive.

"I knew they had been running that play all night long so when I saw the play developing I just went for the ball and I got it," Woods said.

The last two interceptions were the biggest of the game for Woods and the Wildcats. After the Wildcats scored to take a 19-14 lead with 1:55 left, Melrose still had plenty of time to score a potential game winning touchdown, but Woods ended any thoughts of a comeback with two straight interceptions.

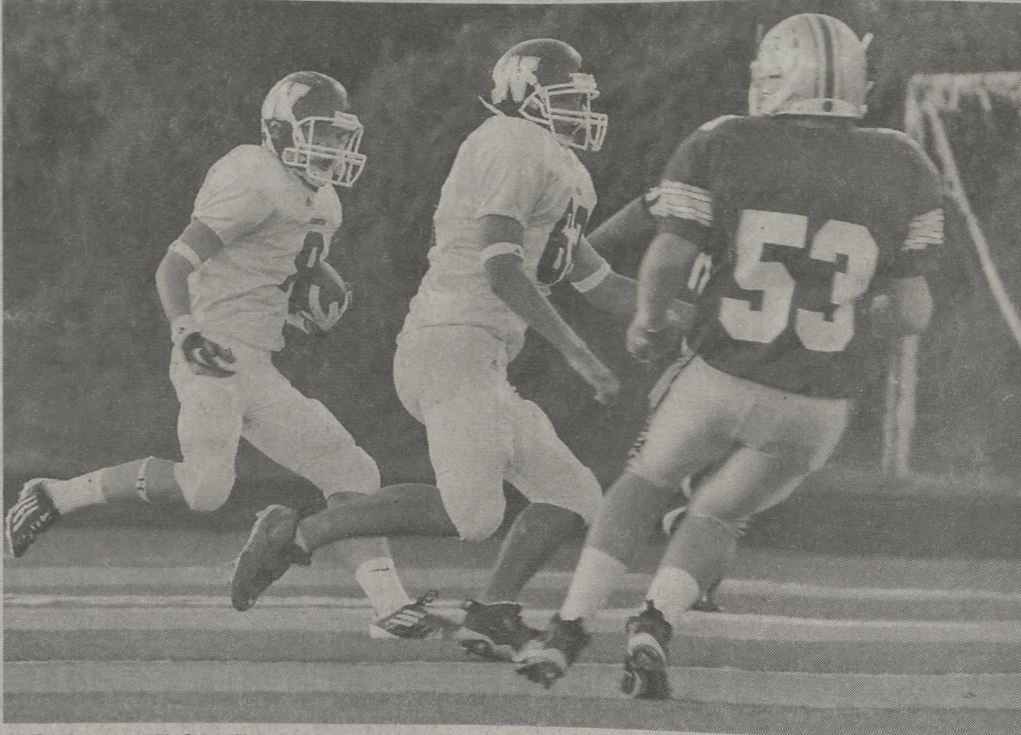

The first came on the Red Raiders first play from scrimmage when he leapt high on the sideline to come down with the ball in front of the intended receiver. The second came with 19 seconds left on the clock on a nearly identical play on the opposite sideline, when he once again out leapt the intended receiver to come down with the ball.

"We knew they were going to run that play," Woods said. "And I knew we couldn't let them complete a pass in that situation so we had to do whatever we could to stop them."

"Timmy goes to the ball really well and he can jump," Barry said. "He's a great athlete and he's a smart player as well. We tell everybody to go to the ball, and Timmy does a great job of doing it."

A fact that the Melrose High Football team is all too familiar with after Friday night's monster effort.

Wilmington High's Tim Woods, shown here during an earlier season game, picked off three interceptions and also had several big offensive catches as a wide receiver during Friday night's win over Melrose. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com).

Middle School Cross Country Meet a complete success

By CHRIS RICCIARDI
Sports Correspondent

When you think of middle school sports, sports like football and baseball usually come to mind. However, at the Wynn Middle School and the John Ryan Elementary School, the latest program to have a presence in the middle schools is cross country.

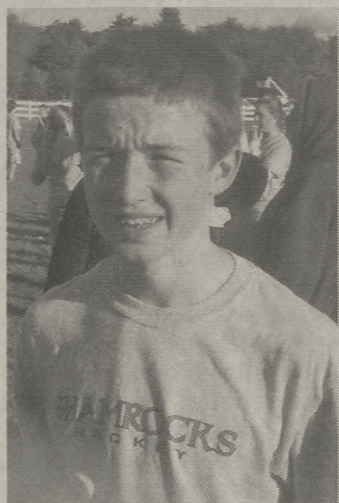

On Tuesday afternoon, both the Wynn and Ryan cross country teams competed in races at the Livingston Street Athletic Complex. Despite the slippery conditions from recent weather and the cold temperatures, the athletes were able to show how far the program has come in the last two years.

"I'm really proud of all of these kids," Tewksbury High cross country coach Peter Molloy said. "I decided to start this because our numbers were so low. This year, we only had 12 girls and 17 boys run cross country at the high school level. It was really low, and I said that most kids were choosing nothing over cross country. It was probably because they weren't familiar with the sport. I can't believe how many kids are excited about cross country. It has blossomed into a nice program."

The middle school programs partly came about because of an event that will be held in Tewksbury on Saturday. United States Track and Field reached out to Tewksbury several years ago and asked the town to host an important event this year.

"They asked if we would host the Massachusetts middle school cross country championship," Molloy said. "I cleared it through the athletic director, and I went to Dr. (Christine) McGrath, who was the superintendent at the time. I said, 'It would look kind of foolish if we held the middle school cross country championship without having a middle school team.' We didn't have many difficulties in setting up the team."

The Wynn and Ryan cross country programs both started two years ago. The turnout was surprising. Molloy said that he initially hoped that the program would have at least ten kids combined. In the first year, about 100 kids signed up for the program. This season, about 140 kids were part of the cross country program. It was quite a surprise for everyone involved, although Molloy had an explanation for the large turnout.

"A lot of kids are coming out because they have a hole in their day," Molloy said. "They didn't have anything going on after school. If we did this later, we probably would have a smaller turnout. So, the numbers don't tell the whole story."

At the meet, parents lined up alone the finish line to watch their kids finish. Members of the high school cross country team were also there, taking note of finishing times and cheering the kids on. They have been involved with the program, working the middle school meets and leading the kids through certain races. The high school runners said that the program will definitely help the high school program in future years.

"I didn't come in contact with cross country until high school," girls' co-captain Hannah Kuegler said. "I would have loved to do this earlier. It's fun to watch them run and cheer each other on. They were really young last year, so now they have their own coaches. This will definitely help. Some of our varsity runners' siblings are fantastic. It'll be great to see what happens once they make it to the high school."

"I think it'll help them because they have a better understanding of the sport now," high school runner Timothy Conklin said. "We came into high school not knowing much about cross country. We would have done this if we had the chance. We only have about 20 kids know with the boys' team, and you're bound to have a much bigger turnout with this."

The high school runners said that their role with the middle school team has only been to help work some of the races and to help with workouts, but others viewed them differently.

"They are role models for these kids," parent James Kenney said. "The high school kids have been phenomenal. They are really well organized and they are great with the kids. My daughter, Angella, wouldn't miss this for anything."

Both races were competitive, as the top ten boys and girls would move on to Saturday's state championship meet. In the boys' race, Connor Blair took the top spot with a time of 8:44. He was followed by Ethan Trudeau, Brendan Sjustedt, Cam Doherty, and Mike Catanzano. Emily Sessa won the girls' race with a time of 9:15. The top five for the girls was rounded out by Sam Catanzano, Mikayla Braciska, Kirsten Dick, and Lisa Polimeno.

Coach Molloy said that he has had a lot of help with the middle school programs, crediting middle school coaches Jaryd Palmer, Eric Taber, and Carol Navetta. He also said that the Recreation Department played a major role in getting the course ready for the race.

The second annual Massachusetts Middle School Cross Country State Championship meet will be held on Nov. 5 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Livingston Street Athletic Complex. With a crowd of over 3,000 expected, there will be significant delays on Livingston St.

Middle School XC State Championships

USA Track & Field New England and the Tewksbury Memorial High School Cross Country Team have teamed up to host the second annual Massachusetts Middle School Cross Country State Championship Meet. The Meet will be held on Saturday November 5 from 9:00 am - 2:00 pm at Tewksbury's Livingston Recreational Fields. A crowd of over 3,000 are expected. Residents & Commuters should expect significant delays on Livingston St and are advised to seek alternate routes during the race hours.

Rams coach earns 100th win Michaud reaches impressive milestone

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILLERICA -- Under the direction of coach Doug Michaud, the Shawsheen Tech Girls Soccer team has made plenty of history. With Michaud behind the bench for the past six years, the Lady Rams have won four CAC Large School championships including this season and four state vocational championships, with the top seeded Lady Rams in pursuit of their fifth voke crown this week.

It has truly been a remarkable stretch for the team and for the program. And last Wednesday afternoon with a 3-0 Shawsheen win over Mystic Valley, which improved Shawsheen to 16-0 on the season, Michaud made some history of his own.

The former Wilmington High soccer star notched the 100th win on his career with the victory over Mystic Valley, a remarkably quick ascension to such a milestone.

While proud of his accomplishment, Michaud was quick to put it in perspective in relation to his team's overall success.

"I don't feel like it's me who is responsible for the wins," Michaud said. "I know that in some case we are playing some teams where we have a much larger enrollment and we really should win. I am very proud of winning 100 games, but I also realize that if I were in the Middlesex League or MVC, I would not have reached 100 wins in just six years."

Of course, as Shawsheen Athletic Director Al Costabile can attest, he also would not have gotten to 100 wins in just six years without being an exceptional coach.

"Doug has done a great job of elevating the program to another level," Costabile said. "He plays a very tough non-league schedule each year which allows the girls to raise their level of play."

The 1989 Wilmington High graduate, who played under the direction of Dick Scanlon before moving on to star at UMass Dartmouth now has an overall record of 100-15-9. Michaud was especially happy to share his milestone with this group of players, nine of which are seniors who have been with him for four years and well over half of the wins on the way to 100.

"The girls were very excited about it," Michaud said. "A good amount of them have been with me for four years which makes it even more special to share it with them."

The nine seniors, Erin Plunkett, Marissa Irwin, Kim Barriss, Charlotte Ardini, Jen Curtis, Sabina Gomes, Amanda Vance, Casey Browne and Julie Russell, have not only obviously been great soccer players for Michaud, but they have been equally good off the field, bringing an attitude to the team that has been a huge key to their and Michaud's success.

"This group is very special to me," Michaud said. "They are such a nice group of kids. Before every home they have a pasta party at one of the player's houses where they really bond and get together, and that is just one example how they work to make the team successful."

Another example is an initiative that Michaud started, but was carried on with even great success than he could have imagined by this group of players.

"A few years ago I mentioned to them about having captain's practices over the summer and they thought it was a little strange at first, but the next year they jumped on it. And now they practice all summer, twice a week. They even call the freshman girls who are going to be starting in the fall and practice with them all summer."

While this group is very special to Michaud, another group of players who spent four years with him is also very special.

In his first year coaching the team six years ago he welcomed four freshmen to the Lady Rams, with Casey Reese, Janel Madore, Jenna Zechner and Jenn Carroll all joining the team.

The results from that group could not have been much better, as they won three voke titles and two league championships and also advanced to the Division 3 North semi-finals in 2009, the deepest penetration of any Lady Rams squad.

"They were my first group of kids and they were exceptional players right from the start," Michaud said. "I was very proud of all they accomplished, especially doing so well in the tournament."

That 2009 run in the tournament featured a 2-1 penalty kick win over Ipswich in the quarterfinals, with the key penalty kick goal coming from then freshman Kristen Carroll. Carroll is now a season veteran as a junior for the Lady Rams, but at that point she was an inexperienced freshman who was teeing up the ball with her team in a 1-0 penalty kick whole and all the pressure in the world on her shoulders.

Carroll's pressure kick not only resulted in a trip to the sectional semi-finals for the Lady Rams, it also gave Michaud one of his most lasting memories of his six years with the team.

"We had missed our first shot and they had scored on theirs, so there was so much pressure on Kristen to score," Michaud said. "For her as a freshman to score that goal and save our whole team is one of my best memories coaching this team, but there are so many great memories I have had, it is hard to pick just one."

Costabile, among no doubt many others, is hoping there are more great memories to come for Michaud and the girls program.

"Without a doubt, it is quite an accomplishment," Costabile said. "And I am sure he will continue on the Boys Soccer team rallies just in time

With three games left in their season, the chances of the Shawsheen Tech Boys Soccer qualifying for the post season team looked very dim, as their record stood at 6-9, and they needed to win all three of those final three games in order to secure a spot.

On Tuesday afternoon the Rams secured that seemingly elusive spot in the Division 2 North Tournament with a clutch 1-0 win over Whittier at Shawsheen. It was the third win in a row and second of the week for the Rams, as they defeated Greater Lawrence by a score of 4-0 last Thursday in a road game.

In the win over Whittier, the Rams got the only goal they would need from senior Danny Suarez at the 6:00 mark of the second half. It was the only they would need, but it still led to many nerve racking moments down the stretch of the game, as they could have had several more goals if not for some bad luck as well as some fine play by some Whittier defenders.

"It was one of those games where we felt like we could have won 7-0," Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss said. "We had two shots go off the goal post, another off the crossbar and then we beat the goalie on two shots only to have their fullbacks make great saves."

"It could have been 5-0 at the half, but instead it was 0-0. It was one of those things where you started to worry about them scoring a fluke goal to tie it, which for us would have been like a loss."

Overall the Rams put 24 shots on the Whittier net, while missing the net with 15 more shots. Whittier meanwhile, put just four shots on Shawsheen goalie Andy Sutton while missing the net on eight more.

The game, originally scheduled for last Friday and then rescheduled for Monday almost did not get played at all due to the poor weather conditions and the poor field conditions after the weekend Nor'easter.

But thanks to the efforts of the Shawsheen Tech players was well as the Shawsheen custodial staff, they were able to clear the field on Monday and get it ready for Tuesday's game.

"It was a group effort to get the field clean. I really want to thank the custodial staff for helping us out and the kids for doing a great job on the day before a big game," Barriss said. "For a while it was looking like we would not get to play at all which would have meant we wouldn't have qualified for the tournament. As it turned out, it was well worth the effort."

In the win over Greater Lawrence the Rams again found themselves in a tight game despite dominating their opponents. They led just 1-0 at the half on a goal by Alex Terk of Wilmington and the game was still very much in doubt.

The Rams erased much of that doubt early in the second half by scoring two goals in less than two minutes. Mike DiGiorgio of Tewksbury made it 2-0 about five minutes into the half and was followed almost immediately on a goal by Suarez for a 3-0 lead.

DiGiorgio closed the scoring with about 15 minutes left in the game on the second assist of the game from Mike Biondo of Wilmington.

The Rams will find out their tournament opponent later this week, and it will undoubtedly be a tough matchup, but regardless of what happens in the tournament, Barriss will not forget the hard work his team put in to qualify.

"I am proud of the way the kids fought and played hard," Barriss said. "They did not give up in any of their last three games and that includes the 4-3 comeback win over Manchester last week. Without that, this win would have meant nothing, so I am very proud of what they did in these last three games."

CROSS COUNTRY

Both the Boys and Girls Cross Country teams at Shawsheen Tech captured championships at the CAC Championship Meet last Thursday in Lowell.

Both teams won their championships fairly handily with the boys rolling to victory with 38 points to top the eight team field with their nearest competitor Greater Lowell coming in with 51 points. On the girls side the margin of victory was even larger as the Lady Rams topped the field with 50 points, with regular season league champion Chelsea being their closest competition with 67 points.

The meet wrapped up a very successful league season for both teams, as the boys finished with a regular season record of 11-2, while the girls came in at 12-1 with their only loss coming to Chelsea.

In the CAC Meet the boys were led as they have been many times this season by junior Matt Mann of Wilmington. Mann was the top Rams finisher while finishing fifth over all in a tome of 19:20.

Again, as has happened many times this season, it was the depth of the Rams that was their key to victory. While Greater Lowell's Nick Byron finished first overall in a time of 18:49 followed by runners from Greater Lawrence, Chelsea and Minuteman before Mann finished first for Shawsheen, the Rams then had five of the next seven finishers to pile up the points and earn the win.

Dan Boudreau of Tewksbury finished sixth over all, coming in just behind Mann in a time of 19:22 while Anthony Federico of Wilmington was next in a time of 19:28.

Senior Ryan Tirabassi of Tewksbury was the next Ram to finish, coming in at ninth overall in a time of 19:37 while senior captain Richard Silk of Tewksbury rounded out the Rams scoring with an eleventh place finish in 19:43.

Cam Murphy (20:27) and Hunter Bradanese (20:31) also qualified for the meet and competed for the Rams.

On the girls side, it was a similar story with the overall depth of the Lady Rams making the difference. Kathleen Silk of Tewksbury was Shawsheen's top overall finishes, coming in at fourth overall in a time of 23:57.

Mystic Valley's Fallon Bushee won the event in a time of 23:25 while PMA Methuen played runners in the second, third and sixth positions, but Shawsheen dominated the top 15 spots to earn the victory.

Taylor Lynch was the next Shawsheen finisher, coming in at eighth overall in a time of 24:30, while Allyson Dellano finished eleventh in a time of 24:53 followed by junior Amanda Leonard in 12th in a time of 24:59. Angela Turco rounded out the top Shawsheen runners with a 15th place finish in 25:12.

Senior Brianna Lynch of Tewksbury (25:22) and Christen Aliperta (25:30) were the other top finishers for Shawsheen.

FOOTBALL

The Shawsheen Football team had a bye this week following their miracle win two weeks ago over CAC Large rival Greater Lawrence. They will resume their season on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Cassidy Field when they take on another CAC rival Whittier Tech.

The game, originally scheduled for a 1:30 kickoff has been moved to 2:30 due to SAT's on Saturday morning.

The win over Greater Lawrence put the Rams right back in the thick of the CAC Large race. While they are just 3-4 overall, they are 1-1 in the league, putting them right in the mix with Greater Lawrence (2-1) and Northeast (2-1), particularly after Greater Lawrence's upset win over Northeast last week during the Rams bye.

With a win over Whittier on Saturday, the Rams would set up a huge showdown with Northeast Metro Tech next season, was not happy to give up the goal of course, but he was able to put it in the proper perspective.

Colella Brothers square off against one other

"It was a win-win situation for the both of us. We were able to win and are advancing to the tournament, but he gets the personal brother rivalry," Adam said. "Everyone had been asking me how I would feel if he ended up scoring on me, but the truth is if anyone was going to score one me I would want it to be my brother, especially on senior night."

Adam has not let up many goals this year to anybody. Since taking over the starting job in just the sixth game of his freshman season, he has been stellar for the Sky Hawks.

Stonehill coach Jim Reddish has loved what he has seen so far from his new young star.

"Adam swapped games for the first six games of the season with our junior goalkeeper as I told them one of they had to earn the starting spot," Reddish said. "After six games it was clear that Adam had tremendous potential, but needed more experience to improve. We threw him into the fire and he never made us second guess our choice."

While Adam has three more years ahead of him to continue to impress coach Reddish, Justin is nearing the end of a terrific career with St. Anselm, having played 57 games for the Hawks under the direction of Peter Ramsey.

"Justin has been a pleasure to coach for four years. He has played almost every position on the field for us over four years," Ramsey said. "He is the perfect student player. He is smart, a great teammate, a fine captain, tough and never gives up. He is a fine person and has grown into a great young man, with wonderful parents who deeply care about him. He was a pleasure to coach over the last four years and has exceeded all expectations of our soccer staff."

For all of Justin's accomplishments in college, one thing he was not prepared for was seeing his brother playing goalie in a college game. He had taken enough shots against the little boy in the back yard, but to see the young man in the Stonehill net was a totally different experience.

"It has been great to see him develop and mature the way he has, but it is hard for me to actually see him as a college goalie," Justin said. "I still see him as playing in the backyard and as helping him out when he was on his travel teams. To see him on that stage is something I will never forget."

It is also an experience that nobody in the Colella family will ever forget, particularly Adam, and Justin's parents and grandparents who were among a huge group of family and friends in attendance. It was no surprise that their parents and grandparents were in attendance, as they have been to every game the boys have played, not just in college but while they were growing up as well.

"The whole middle section of the stands was all our family," Adam said. "Our mom was in the stands wearing a Stonehill sweatshirt and a St. Anselm hat. Our parents and grandparents have been a huge source of inspiration to Justin and I, from the youth program in Wilmington to our travel teams. They never pushed it on us, but they always supported us and loved that we both played the same sport. They have been nothing but fantastic throughout our whole playing experience."

"Our parents have always been our biggest coaches and our biggest supporters on and off the field," Justin added. "Our dad coached us growing up and they both spent so much time and gas money taking us to games just so we could play. I can't thank them enough for all the sacrifices they have made for us. They made it possible for us to move on to the next level. This was a dream come true for us as well as for them."

Cavanaugh emerges on the defensive line of this team."

Cavanaugh is one of the captains of this year's team along with Cristina Wilson and Ryanne Newhouse. She said that the biggest reason why the team is hosting a state tournament game is the bond the members of the team have with each other.

"We are really a close team," she said. "I think we have five team dinners a week. We just do a lot together. We're just more of a family than a team - we just communicate with each other and we just have so much fun together."

Cavanaugh was asked about some funny stories that happened this season but without embarrassing any of her teammates in print, she did talk about an instant with Henry that happened during a game and Cavanaugh and several of her teammates couldn't stop laughing. She's going to cherish those funny moments just like she'll cherish all of the team's wins and the exciting tie with Watertown.

"Oh yeah, we're still talking about that game," she said. "Watertown is a really good team. I mean I think they have been undefeated for the past three seasons. We're really proud of that game and being able to tie them. The first time we played them we lost 6-2. The second time we faced them I think we realized that we could keep up with them and how much we didn't want to lose. I mean we wanted to win, and wished we did, but ending in a tie was still something special for all of us."

Cavanaugh has built quite a resume already. Besides playing field hockey, she also plays lacrosse in the spring. In the classroom, she is a member of the National Honor Society, is a member of the Medical Careers Club and outside of school she volunteers her time on the TOPS Soccer program here in town and of course has a part-time job as a babysitter.

"Five years ago I started the babysitting job watching a girl named Lily," said Cavanaugh. "She has taught me so much - she tells me how to cherish every moment I have, to live life to the fullest and I just really love working with her. She means so much to me. Ever since I started working with her I have wanted to become a teacher."

Ever since being associated with Lily, Cavanaugh volunteered for the TOPS program four years ago - barely in high school and volunteering to help other children in town certainly says a lot about her character.

"She has such a sensitive side to her, but when she is on the attack, she is unstoppable," said Campbell. "Courtney is a captain that any of the girls can talk to, she is trustworthy and has a judgment-free attitude. Her parents should be very proud of the young adult they have raised."

Saturday in Wakefield.

But before they can look ahead the Rams must first deal with a Whittier team that is 5-3 overall (0-1) including a 34-9 win over a Chelsea team that beat Shawsheen 26-14. The only other common opponent for the teams was North Shore, who Whittier beat last week by a score of 32-6 while Shawsheen won by a score of 24-6 in their meeting with North Shore a few weeks ago.

"Whittier is in a similar situation to us where they have improved as the year has gone on," Costabile said. "Their offense is clicking and they are very aggressive on defense."

Whittier was led against North Shore by Andrew McGrath who had two touchdown runs, including one of 64 yards. McGrath now has five touchdowns on the season, while quarterback Shane Surette leads the Wildcats with six touchdowns.

The Rams won last year's contest against Whittier in Haverhill by a score of 16-6, rushing for 197 yards in the game and holding Whittier without a first down. Whittier's only score came on an 80 yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter, accounting for nearly all of their 102 yards of total offense.

While Costabile is not expecting his team to dominate to that extreme this year, he does feel like his team is heading into this game at a good point in their season.

"I think we are playing our best football of the season right now and we are definitely playing our best defense of the year," Costabile said. "We do have to be more consistent on offense and we have to be able to put up more points. We will definitely need to do that against Whittier."

WITNESS, Hon. Peter C. DiGangi, First Justice of this Court: Date: October 21, 2011 Tara E. DeCristofaro Register of Probate 05557240 11/2/11

Every day throughout the United States newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics including guardianships, conservatorships and protective orders, probating wills, business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, auctions to dispose of surplus government equipment, local government finances and state and local elections. The public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

Wilmington Youth Hockey weekend round-up

The Wilmington Mite 2 White Wildcats dominated in their season debut on Saturday against the Tewksbury Mite 1 team, resulting in a 3-0 win.

Wilmington started off strong with forwards Joey Cornish, Liam Crowley and Tristan DiMeco taking the puck to the net for some solid scoring chances. The fore check was clicking as the forwards kept the action in the Tewksbury zone. Five minutes into the first period, center James Fisher battled at the net to put in Wilmington's first goal. This energized the Tewksbury Mites and a minute later they had a breakaway but goalie Chase Perault made all the right moves to cover up the puck and deny the goal. Wilmington won the ensuing face off and defenseman Nate Packer maneuvered the puck along the boards dodging the Tewksbury fore check, bringing it back in to the Tewksbury zone.

The defense was strong on this day as Keegan Gray, Patrick Callahan and Michael Daniels were all tuned in, playing their positions, patrolling the blue line, and keeping the puck in Tewksbury's zone for most of the game, a big reason why Wilmington led 1-0 at the end of the first.

The second period brought more of the same great coverage by Wilmington. Gray and Packer, Callahan and Daniels kept the puck in the Tewksbury end for over two consecutive minutes, even through a line change. Half way through the second period Tewksbury took another shot on goal which Goalie Perault was quick to cover up. There was some more back and forth action until, with only two minutes left in the period, center Cameron Gagnon, assisted by Gray and Ryan Dusablon, shot five hole for Wilmington's second goal.

A minute later the persistent Joey Pastore scored to make it 3-0, with only 42 seconds left on the clock. He was assisted by Daniels. The second period ended with the Wildcats staked to a strong 3-0 lead.

In the third period Tewksbury came out strong and made their way to the Wilmington goal during the first minute of play. Again we witnessed great goaltending as Perault used everything he had to deflect the puck away - blockers, pads, glove, and stick to name a few. Forwards Pastore and Dusablon continued to turn the attack on the Tewksbury net for more scoring chances. Forwards Cornish, Crowley, DiMeco, Gagnon and Fisher helped keep the puck hemmed in the Tewksbury zone, where a majority of the game was played. Tewksbury had several more scoring chances which were skillfully deflected and covered, but when the final buzzer sounded goalie Perault had earned the first shut-out of his career.

Mite 2 Blue

This past Saturday morning, the Wilmington Mite 2 Blue team traveled to Hallenborg Arena in Billerica to play the Billerica Mite A's. The Blue's were looking to put a tough Parity Round schedule behind them and open the new season strong. Mission accomplished as Wilmington raced passed Billerica 16-0.

A strong defensive effort was as much the story of this game as the scoring. Both defensive pairings, Mick Keogan with Phil Murray and Anthony Savage with Jason Davey, did an outstanding job of keeping the puck in the Billerica end and away from goaltender Ella Cedrone. Ella was able to handle the few shots that got through and preserve the shutout.

The game started out with some back and forth play as both teams tried to feel each other out, and was scoreless for the first 4:30 of the game. Then Wilmington erupted for five goals in the first period, seven in the second period, and four more in the third. The scoring attack was paced by the line of Brian Dunfey, centering Jack Anderson and Nicholas Ackerman. Dunfey collected five goals in the contest including a natural hat trick in the first period. Anderson added two goals and Ackerman put one over the goal line as well.

The second line of Brett Ebert centering Brian Davey and Kevin Ackerley contributed to the score sheet also, led by Davey's four goals, Ackerley's four assists, and Ebert's two helpers. Rounding out the scoring was defenseman Jason Davey who took advantage of some open ice that was available and added four goals of his own including some nice end to end rushes.

Squirt 2's

After a successful parity round, the Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Squirt 2 team earned a place in a higher division of the Valley League to begin the regular season. The Wildcats faced Greater Lowell on Sunday morning in Methuen, meeting their toughest opponent of the season.

Goalie Alex Fitzler was spectacular in the early going, turning aside many point blank chances as the Lowell squad showed a crisp passing game to break into the offensive zone. Zachary Smith, Joseph Hartzell, Connor Hill, and Cameron Banks were on defense, slowing the onslaught for a time, but Lowell broke through with two quick goals halfway into the first period. Two late goals made the margin 4-0 at the end of the first, and the Wildcats had a big challenge ahead.

The second period began with a tripping call against Wilmington, but the team killed off the penalty and used that success to build some momentum. As the Wildcats surged, Lowell was whistled for two penalties in a row, giving the Wildcats a two man advantage for just over a minute.

The forward line of Justin Crowley, Chris Bernazani, and Jared Russell was unable to capitalize on the power play, but the team continued to press the offense with Anthony Bowker, Taylor Padulsky, and Max Churchill on the next shift. Joseph Hansen switched to defense and Connor Hill moved to center between Morgan Vigeant and Jillian Fisher, and the Wildcats were finally rewarded when Cameron Banks scored in the final minute of the second period.

Looking to close the gap in the final period, the Wilmington players were forced to take some chances that led to Lowell getting some odd-man rushes. Three of those turnovers found the back of the net as Lowell built a comfortable lead with five minutes remaining. The comeback wasn't meant to happen, and a late goal by Cameron Banks was too little too late and the Wildcats fell by a final score of 7-2.

Tewksbury Youth Soccer weekend wrap-up

Tewksbury 1, Melrose 0
Vying for their seventh shutout of the season the Girls U13-1 team had more to contend with then just a good opponent; they had Mother Nature's early Noreaster to battle. The girls had to wait in the cold rain for almost an hour to start their game and by the time they took the pitch it was a mess, it was pouring, and it was very cold and windy. This didn't stop the team from coming out strong and right away forwards Kayla Devlin, Kayla Makooi, and Karina Crowley began pounding shots at the Melrose keeper. Once again the shots seem to go everywhere but in the back of the net but the girls didn't give up.

With great support from Emily Sessa, Madison Wescott, and Allison Piracini at midfield the Redmen were able to keep the ball in the offensive end of the field to start the game. Defenders Caroline Picariello, Kelly Fortier, Victoria Mirabito, and Sam Surowiec challenged the Melrose forwards and didn't allow a shot on Samantha Mercurio in the first half. The rain turned into a torrential sideways down pour but the game continued as Allison Capone, Dainelle Carrigg, and Priya Vijay moved the ball well, despite the conditions.

Well into the second half it looked like this match was going to end in a scoreless tie until Surowiec poked the ball away from a Melrose forward, then she made a nice pass to Piracini, who passed it perfectly up to a streaking Devlin who one timed into the back of the net. The Melrose keeper had no chance at this rain soaked, hard shot. Sessa, with her usual strong play in the middle of the field, along with the outstanding defenders, and the swift hands of Mercurio were able to keep the Melrose shots to a minimum and preserve the small lead. Mercurio earned her third shutout in a row and her seventh of the MYSL season.

Girls U12-1

Tewksbury 1, Westford 0
Tewksbury's defense kept Westford off the board despite the fact that much of the play in the first half was in Tewksbury's end. Defender Rachel Sessa was dominate once again and controlled the middle while Andrea DiCiaccio and Maggie Penta held down the speedy Westford wings with their aggressive play. Lindsay Harris earned her second straight shutout in goal with some diving stops and nice catches.

Tewksbury woke up in the second half and took the play to Westford. Tewksbury forwards, Jessica Cacciola, Kelly Golini, Stephanie Graffeo and Samantha Schultz came out aggressive and had several scoring chances. Midfielder Lillian Holden made some great crosses that Tewksbury just couldn't finish. Abigail Eskenas impresses each week at midfield with her precision passing and footwork. Tewksbury's pressure paid off when it was awarded a corner kick. Isabelle Picher curved a beautiful kick towards the goal.

The Westford goalie reached up over her head to catch the ball, but she was unable to and it went off her hands and into the top of the net. Up 1-0 and with Harris in net, Tewksbury sealed the deal and the impressive win.

GU12-6

Tewksbury 2, Dracut 1
The Tewksbury Girls U12 Division 4A teams came out on a cold Saturday afternoon with a fire in their heart and were able to come out on top in a very hard fought game against Dracut. Tewksbury energy was untamed to start and three minutes in Sarah Boudreau showing great field awareness was able to score on a nice elevated shot. Sophia DeMatos made the nice pass to Sarah to set up the goal. Mary-Cate Cassidy and Isabella Beylounie who played defense most of the game showed great courage in turning away a relentless Dracut attack. Leanne Durham in goal however was challenged throughout the first half and was able to turn away all attacks.

In the second half Tewksbury started off strong but as the half went on the Dracut attack started to wear down Tewksbury and with less than 10 minutes to play Dracut finally capitalized on their determination and scored on a beautiful shot past Kendall Donahoe. Now with the game tied Leanne went back in net and Kendall moved to center midfield to shore up that position where Dracut was having the most success. This strategy paid off as with only a few minutes left Kendall stopped a Dracut attack moved the ball to midfield and blasted a pass towards the Dracut net. It just missed going in but Sophia was in perfect position to finish it off for the 2-1 lead and scored for the third straight game.

Tewksbury held off Dracut

the rest of the way to preserve the win. This was a total team effort on the day with everybody contributing at some point. Jane Kirby, Janine Richardson, Caitlin Sheehan, Rebecca Smith, and Rachel Figucia all played well in the middle of the field and helped set up many Tewksbury attacks throughout the day.

Tewksbury 1, Reading 0
The Tewksbury GU9-1 played the Reading 10-2 on Saturday and came away with a last second victory. On the frozen tundra of Frasca fields, the Little Lady Redmen came prepared to do battle. The girls had the post ringing most of the game with shot after shot, but just couldn't get one to stay in the net. The game winner came with literally 15 seconds left in the match. Adrianna Niles scored the game winner. Offensive player of the game goes to Adrianna. Defensive Player of the game goes to Kaitlin MacDonald.

Crew and Bulls battle hard on the soccer field

Girls First Grade Columbus Crew vs NY Red Bulls

The NY Red Bulls' offensive pressure was relentless with Julianna Marinho and Grace Constantine applying it with utter determination. Outstanding defense by Sydney Collins, Kaytlyn MacPherson, and Kylie Gates was a sight to see. While scoring by Cameryn Foresyth had the crowd on the edge of their seats.

Boys First Grade Columbus Crew vs FC Dallas

The crowds gathered at the Shawsheen fields for this back and forth game. The Columbus Crew led by Evan Uftring, Timmy Pearson and Madhav Jhawar got the crowd jumping out of their seats. Tyler Beals led the scoring charge while the great defensive effort by Charlie Maiella, Jonathan DeFeo and Keshav Jhawar kept the action going.

Colorado Rapids vs Houston Dynamo

In what could have been confused as a World Cup Match, the Colorado Rapids started off strong with great offensive pressure from Nikos Koss and Jack Klindt coupled with the steel like defense of Ryan Mahoney and Roman Moretti made for an incredible game. Brian Barry and Aiden Gomez scored first for the Rapids while a Hope Solo like effort of Sebastien de Verbigier was solid in the net to keep their team alive.

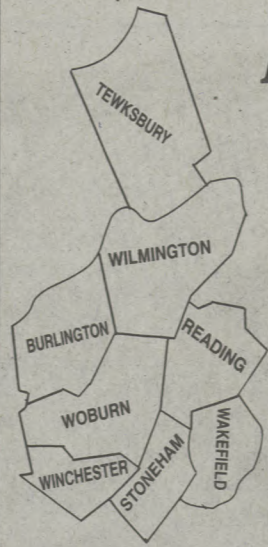

Girls Second Grade NE Revolution vs Colorado Rapids

Nobody stayed home for this action packed game. The Revolution's Danielle Flaherty and Quinn Proulx had great scoring opportunities getting the crowd jumping out of their seats. Outstanding offense by Jenna Danieli, Samantha Jareo, Madison Mulas and Ella Reynolds set up many scoring chances. The flawless defense of Marissa Bryan, Emily Fothergill and Grace Steinmetz provided great protection for the Goalkeepers.

Boys Second Grade Columbus Crew vs DC United

Nobody stayed home for this action packed game. The Columbus Crew's Liam Dwyer scored getting the crowd jumping out of their seats. Outstanding offense by Brian Curdo, Joey McLaren, Matt Vinal, Kevin Stevens and Dillon Bloom set up many scoring chances. The flawless defense of Evan Shackelford, Nick Cella and Victor Che provided great protection for the goalkeepers AJ Lavigne and Shane Papineau.

Not to be outdone, the DC United was also impressive on the offensive side of the ball with great skill being displayed by Gavin Erikson, Dominic Gabardi, Christian O'Neal, and Drew Ruff. The defense was also showing their skills today with Nate Packer, Nicholas Doyle and Tristan DiMeco keeping the ball out of their zone for much of the game, while the goal keeping team of Aidan Murphy and Thomas Dalton kept this game close.

Pendenza piling up the points for UML Hockey team

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington's Joseph Pendenza found the score sheet three times this weekend, but it wasn't enough as the UMass Lowell men's hockey team dropped a home-and-home series against #1 Boston College.

Pendenza, a sophomore forward, had an assist in Friday night's contest, a 4-2 loss. The game was UMass Lowell's home opener as 5,162 fans packed the Tsongas Center to cheer on the River Hawks.

Pendenza had a goal and an assist the following night in a 6-3 loss at Conte

Forum in Chestnut Hill. His goal came at 5:16 in the third period and was his second of the year. He notched his assist in the first period.

UMass Lowell boasts a record of 2-3-0 so far in this young season. The River Hawks are 0-2-0 in Hockey East. They will play host to Boston University on Saturday night in the Tsongas Center at 7 p.m.

Vinny Papageorgiou and the Franklin Pierce men's soccer team wrapped up their dream season on Saturday after pulling out a 2-1 victory over Le Moyne.

Papageorgiou, a senior goalie from Wilmington, made seven saves in the victory finish off a perfect regular season for the Ravens. Franklin Pierce finished the regular season with a record of 16-0-1 overall and were 12-0-1 in the Northeast-10 Conference.

Franklin Pierce won the NE-10 regular season crown on Tuesday.

DAN CARUSO

Papageorgiou was phenomenal this season, as he played every minute of his team's 17 games. He boasted a goals against average of 0.63 and made 53 saves. Eight of his 16 wins were shutouts.

The Ravens, ranked second in the country, were set to play Stonehill University on Tuesday in the Northeast-10 quarterfinals. Results of the game were unavailable as of press time.

Tewksbury's Daniel Caruso was named to the 2011 All-Commonwealth Coast Conference team after a strong season as a midfielder on the Roger Williams University men's soccer team.

Caruso, a sophomore Central Catholic graduate, had a breakout year for the Hawks. He set career highs with nine goals and seven assists and his 25 points were tied for second in the conference. He was also third and fourth in the conference in goals and assists, respectively.

Roger Williams traveled to top-seeded Western New England University Tuesday in the CCC Semifinals. Results were unavailable as of press time.

Wilmington's Leah Potcner picked up her fifth shutout of the season in perhaps the easiest way possible to help lead the Salem State women's soccer team to a 6-0 win over the Massachusetts Maritime Academy on Saturday.

Potcner, a senior goalie, didn't have to make a save to earn the clean sheet. She ended the regular season having played in every minute of her squad's games this year. The team captain ran a record of 6-6-3 and made 81 saves with a 1.02 goals against average.

Ernie Mello had another outstanding game for the WPI football team, but once again the Engineers were unable to pull out a win as they fell 27-13 to Hobart College on Saturday.

The senior running back from Wilmington ran for 129 yards on 25 carries and also added a seven-yard catch. He scored his 11th touchdown of the season on a five-yard run in first quarter.

Mello has been one of the lone bright spots for the Engineers this year, who have a 2-6 record and are 1-4 in conference. He has rushed for 881 yards and has been the main offensive focus for his team. He needs 119 yards to break the 1,000-yard mark for the season.

WPI has a bye week this weekend and will wrap up its season the following week against Saint Lawrence.

Wilmington's Christiana Bush and the Wheelock field hockey team will enter the post-season in an enviable position: as a No. 1 seed.

Bush, a freshman defender, saw action in all of her team's 16 games this year. She started in five of them and had one goal.

The Wildcats overall record is only 5-11, but a 4-1 mark in conference was good enough for the top seed in the New England Collegiate Conference Tournament. They will host Anna Maria College on Wednesday.

Two Wilmington natives scored goals for the Colby-Sawyer College men's soccer team in its 3-0 road victory against Rivier on Friday night.

Kevin Flaherty, a sophomore defender, opened the scoring in the 15th minute when he buried a cross for his fourth goal of the season. Chris DiCecca, a freshman midfielder, ended the scoring with less than four minutes in the game. That goal was his third of the year.

Colby-Sawyer's season ended on Sunday afternoon after a 3-1 loss to Castleton in the North Atlantic Conference semifinals.

CHRISTINA BUSH

The Chargers finished with a 5-12-1 record.

Kaitlyn Riley saw action once again for the Bentley University field hockey team in its 9-1 triumph over Southern Connecticut State University on Saturday afternoon.

Riley, a junior goalkeeper from Wilmington, played a little over 17 minutes on Saturday and made one save. It was the second game this year in which she's seen playing time. Bentley finished the regular season with a record of 9-9 and will host a home playoff game on Wednesday.

The Fitchburg State women's soccer team will enter the MASCAC Tournament as the fourth seed, and two local players played significant roles in helping get the Falcons to the postseason.

Wilmington's Danielle Polcari, a sophomore defender, played in ten games this season for the Falcons, starting in eight, and had one assist. Tewksbury's Kimberly Carroll, a sophomore forward, saw action in 15 games and scored two goals.

The Falcons will travel to Worcester State to take on the Lancers on Wednesday night.

Staying at Fitchburg State, Tewksbury's Elizabeth Connolly has wrapped up her freshman season as a member of the school's field hockey team. The defender saw action in 13 of her team's 17 games this year. The Falcons saw their season come to an end after losing to Worcester State on Saturday.

Three local runners braved the elements on Sunday to compete in the Cape Cod Marathon in Falmouth. Wilmington's Kenneth Warren finished in 66th place with a time of 3:07:14. Tewksbury's Trish Bourne finished in 136th place with a time of 3:26:45, while Ben Bourne finished in 193rd place with a time of 3:38:24. Over 900 people competed in the race.

This column will continue weekly. If you have any information you feel should be featured in this column, feel free to e-mail me at: dan.j.igo@gmail.com.

Buzzers start another fun filled season

The Wilmington Buzzers had their first scrimmage of the season on Saturday morning. Wilmington hosted two teams from Tewksbury and one team for Lowell, for some exciting 3v3 with goalies, cross ice match ups. Wilmington's Ristuccia Arena was buzzing with over 65 young hockey players battling it out, in three cross ice games on the same sheet of ice. The energy was amazing, and the smiles and sweaty heads leaving the ice were proof.

It's not too late to be a part of all the excitement. Please visit www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org for more information and to register.

North Reading native enters Wrestling Hall of Fame

Ann Lake talks about life on the ropes

By PAUL FEELY

In a sport typically dominated by men, a former North Reading woman's name is now immortalized in a hall of fame alongside the likes of "Superfly" Jimmy Snuka and "Killer" Kowalski.

Last spring Ann Lake, now a resident of Harpswell, Maine, joined her sister Ruth and 21 others as 2011 inductees into the New England Professional Wrestling Hall of Fame.

"I remember recognizing all of the other names in there when I went in," Lake, 77, recalled of a trip she took to attend the induction ceremony on May 21 in Providence, R.I. "I wrestled the same night as many of them over the years."

Lake, now a white-haired animal lover who enjoys organizing American Kennel Club dog shows, was once one of the legends of the professional wrestling circuit. In the 1950s and early '60s, she was known throughout the industry for her daring aerial maneuvers, used to pummel opponents in the ring.

Learning her moves from an Argentinean trainer called the "Great Zuma," also known as Manuel Chaij, she was soon performing drop kicks and flying head scissors, moves that no one else would attempt at the time, and thus confused her opponents as to what was coming next.

"I don't know any other woman wrestler out there back then who was doing what I did," Lake said. "Those of us that were lady wrestling, we were sort of paving the way then. We drew in good-size crowds."

Beginnings

Ruth and Ann Lake were born in Chelsea - Ruth in 1935 and Ann in 1933. The family moved to North Reading in 1938.

"We grew up on a farm in North Reading," said Ann. "Our summers were spent working on the farm making hay, hoeing the garden, chopping and stacking wood for the winter."

Like many living in similar situations, Ruth and Ann had little time to themselves each day.

"We had no free time," said Lake. "With seven in the family, we had to do all the work. At the end of a long hard day of work, the old swimming hole sure felt good!"

Ann and Ruth both attended nine years of school in North Reading, then went on to Reading High School. After graduating from Reading, Ruth and Ann went to work for the local veterinarian, Dr. G. A.

Lester.

"Shortly after going to work for him, we both went into professional wrestling," said Ann. "I went to a wrestling match in Lawrence. A man approached me and told me he was a promoter for wrestlers and asked me if I was interested. I sure was, as I was a good athlete through school."

Lake had caught the eye of Boston area promoter Tony Santos.

"He was looking for young squirts like me to promote as lady wrestlers," she joked recently. "All brawn and no brain - I grew up on a farm."

Lake said Santos asked her to come back to the gym the following day. She said the promoter brought in "The Great Zuma," to teach her the ropes.

It didn't take long before Ann realized she had found her unique niche in life, a role she was able to share and enjoy with her sister.

"The next week Ruth and I went to a gym in Revere for six months training," said Lake. "I had my first professional match and came home with the New England Championship belt. I wrestled all through Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Isle. I wrestled all over the U.S."

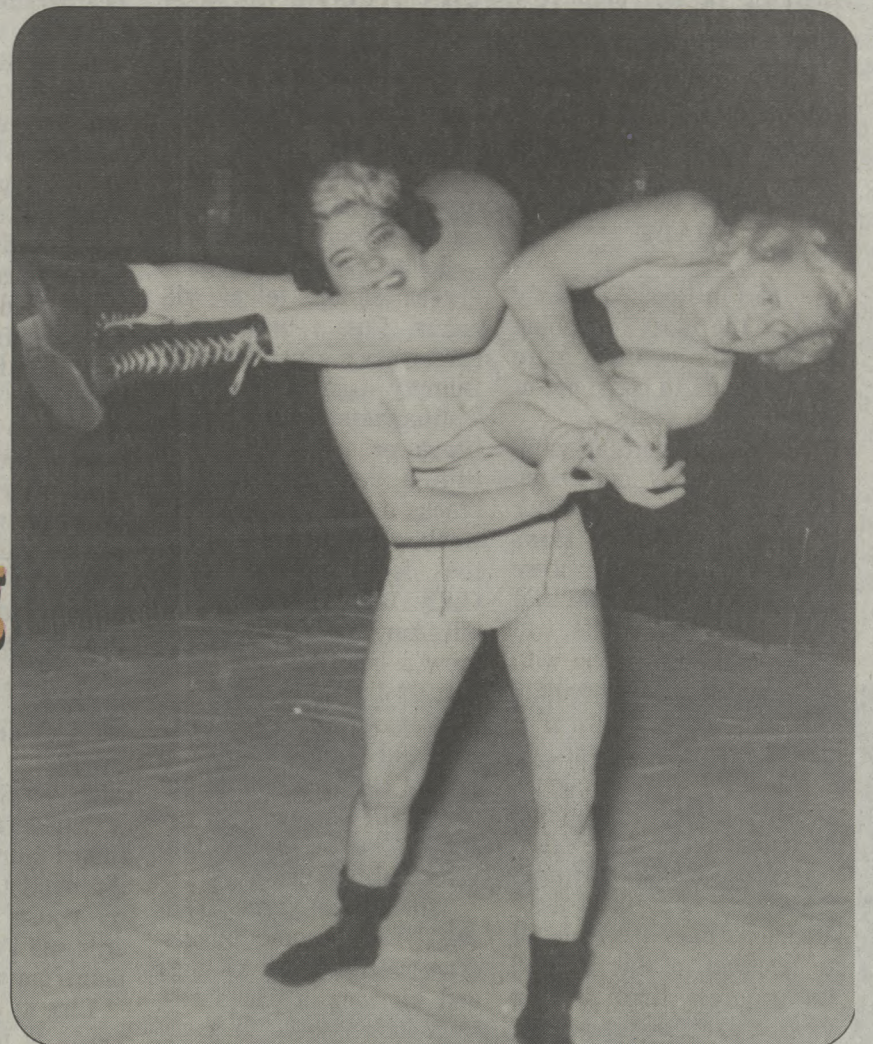

After four years in the ring, Ruth got married and gave up wrestling, leaving Ann to pursue a personal goal - taking a title belt away from a fellow female wrestler who billed herself as the most hated woman in the world, the Slave Girl Moolah. many of those same matches were broadcast on TV in recent years, following Moolah's death.

"I was going all over the U.S. after the world belt from Slave Girl Moolah," said Lake. "After eight years, my career came to an abrupt end. I fractured my ankle requiring plates, pins and screws."

Lake came back to North Reading to find a job at her old workplace.

"I worked for Dr. Lester for 31 years until he died,"

"PUSS IN BOOTS" PURRFECT

by Paul Feely

"PUSS IN BOOTS" IS EASILY ONE OF the most refreshing sequels to come out of Hollywood in years. Antonio Banderas returns to star as the suave, vain Puss. The amazing animation team does a marvelous job of making Puss catlike.

"PUSS IN BOOTS"
GRADE: ***

"Puss in Boots" is easily one of the most refreshing sequels (it's actually more of a spinoff) to come out of Hollywood in years.

Instead of nonstop zaniness and zippy one-liners, director Chris Miller ("Shrek the Third") slows the tempo down and concentrates on telling a tale that both kids and adults will enjoy, and hums along with wit and first-rate animation, all the while offering a moral lesson.

Antonio Banderas returns as the suave and vain feline Puss, who first appeared in DreamWorks "Shrek 2," and in "Puss," Banderas has a vehicle all to his own to star in, and has a great time proving why he's one of the coolest cats on-screen.

Whether he's rolling his r's in voice-overs or manipulating a prison guard with his sad-kitty eyes, he makes Puss a funny and endearing creature. Equally responsible for bringing Puss to life is the amazing animation team. It does a marvelous job of making Puss catlike, whether he's scampering after skittering lights or adopting that pitiful look.

The screenplay gives Banderas great material to work with, as Puss carries a reputation as an outlaw, and seeks to clear his name.

To get back in the good graces of his fellow villagers, Puss reunites with his former partner Humpty Dumpty (played by Zach Galifianakis of "The Hangover" 1 and 2), an egg with a bad past. Humpty cracks a plan that involves stealing magic beans from the foul-tempered Jack (Billy Bob Thornton) and Jill (Amy Sedaris) so he can grow a beanstalk of fabled lore.

Helping Humpty is Kitty Softpaws (Salma Hayek), a nimble cat-babe who is not only Puss' match on the dance floor, but also in tangling with the bad guys.

Where the Shrek franchise had become bogged down with pop culture gags and showbiz inside jokes, Puss looks poised to carry on with more films in the future, ready to pounce on the audience created by everyone's favorite ogre.

"PARANORMAL ACTIVITY 3"
GRADE: ***

If you liked the first two "Paranormal Activity" movies, good news - "Paranormal Activity 3" is more of the same, using found-footage tricks to shock the audience. And shock you, they will.

The third movie in the franchise may seem a bit unnecessary at times (if you haven't seen the first two, this won't be an issue, and you don't need to have seen the previous installments to enjoy this one), but it's got enough genuinely scary moments to keep audiences on edge throughout (especially as you get toward the end).

The film includes brief cameos by Katie Featherston and Sprague Grayden, reprising their roles as Katie and Kristi, telling the audience embers who have seen the first two films that this is a prequel to a prequel. A pregnant Kristi has moved into a new home; Katie drops off a couple of boxes of belongings that include a lot of videotapes from their childhood that neither remembers watching. After what appears to be a break-in the tapes go missing.

The story then goes back to 1988, when the tapes were made. Katie and Kristi are little girls (Chloe Csengery and Jessica Tyler Brown, respectively), living in a new place with their mother Julie (Lauren Bittner) and her boyfriend Dennis (Christopher Nicholas Smith). Dennis is a videographer, so when things start going bump in the night (and day) around the house, he has the cameras and VCR tapes to try to figure out what's going on.

Like its predecessors, the movie is more clever than good, and if you feel as if you're being manipulated by the filmmakers, it's because you are. That's the fun of these movies, something you know going in. The point is to manipulate you in the scariest way possible, and "Paranormal Activity 3" does a good job of that.

The bottom line, for me, is this: I don't scare easily at horror films (that's one of the reasons I tend to pan them), but I watched Paranormal Activity 3 in a state of high anxiety. Schulman and Joost have fun with the archetypal image of a white-sheeted costume ghost, but mostly what they're aces at is timing.

"THE THING"
GRADE: **

This film bills itself as a prequel to John Carpenter's 1982 classic "The Thing", and it is - at least for the first 40 minutes or so. After that, it's basically a remake, reverential at times to the original.

Paleontologist Kate Lloyd (Mary Elizabeth Winstead) has traveled to the desolate region for the expedition of her lifetime. Joining a Norwegian scientific team that has stumbled across an extraterrestrial ship buried in the ice, she discovers an organism that seems to have died in the crash eons ago. But it is about to wake up.

When a simple experiment frees the alien from its frozen prison, Kate must join the crew's pilot, Carter (Joel Edgerton), to keep it from killing them off one at a time. And in this vast, intense land, a parasite that can mimic anything it touches will pit human against human as it tries to survive and flourish.

In the opening sequence of Carpenter's "The Thing," an American research team stationed in Antarctica is interrupted by a pair of helicopters with Norwegian men in them who are frantically attempting to kill a malamute that is running through the snowy terrain.

Trying to make sense of the situation, Kurt Russell's R.J. MacReady and Richard Dysart's Dr. Copper get in their own chopper to fly to the Norwegians' remote outpost, and once they land they find the entire compound vacant and in utter ruins.

During their walk-through, the two stumble upon, among many other disturbing and perplexing things, the frozen corpse of an individual who hastily sliced his own wrists and throat. Completely flabbergasted, Copper turns to MacReady and asks, "My God, what the hell happened here?"

The aspect that differentiates "The Thing" from other monster movies is that it not only slays its prey in gruesome ways, it also replicates the appearance of everything it kills. So the audience, as well as all the characters, never truly know who's the alien and who's really who they say they are.

TO THE CORE (WINCHESTER)

"The current role of the federal government in public education is (too large, too small, about right)? A quality public education is important for a strong and viable democracy (strongly agree, disagree) — these questions provoke lively debate, and everyone has an opinion. The trick is to have an informed opinion," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"On Sunday, November 13, Winchester League of Women Voters (LWV) will go beyond sound bites and headlines as they participate in the U.S. League's National Consensus Study, 'What Role Should the Federal Government Have in Public Education?' They will make their voices heard, alongside the voices of leagues across the nation.

"The LWV conducts such in-depth studies in order to formulate fact-based and non-partisan positions on critical public policy issues such as education, immigration, and environmental protection. The study process has long distinguished the LWV from other organizations that do advocacy work and is the key reason why political leaders often look to the LWV for credible research.

"What does a national-level 'consensus study' entail? The work begins at the grassroots level, moving through a process that includes issue selection, research, study, consensus, formulating a position, and, finally, the use of that position to influence public policy.

"Participation in this particular education study began in 2010 at the annual 'Brainstorm Brunch'; they voted to study the topic, Federal role in public education...

"...The consensus study focuses on two major areas: Common Core Standards, national standards developed by the National Governors' Association (NGA) and the Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO); Funding and Equity, the traditional federal involvement in public education and how it has evolved.

"In preparation for the November 13 meeting, LWV members will have read several papers...

"Led by Judie Muggia, the consensus study will include not only Winchester but also guests from the Arlington League. Gosselin Law Firm is generously providing space.

"Neighboring communities such as Woburn, Stoneham, and Medford, currently without leagues, are welcome to become members and participate in the national consensus study.

"The Winchester LWV is a grassroots, non-partisan political organization whose mission is to encourage informed and active participation of citizens in democracy, to increase understanding of major public policy issues, and to influence public policy through education and advocacy.

"Prospective members, both women and men, can learn more about programs and join our civic work by going to our website, www.lwvwinchester.org.

STICK...ING SITUATION (READING)

"With the town looking at ways to raise new revenue, one avenue that won't be pursued is raising the price of a Community Access Sticker," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The cost will remain the same, $25, following a discussion by the Board of Selectmen.

"Residents must purchase a sticker to have access to the Compost Center off Strout Avenue, as well as park at the MBTA depot in Reading.

"The idea of raising the cost of the stickers had been floated in recent discussions by town officials, exploring new revenue possibilities.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

GRASSROOTS, FLOTATION, AND 'SPIRITED' DISCUSSION

"Selectman James Bonazoli had discussed creating a special sticker that could be used for both Compost Center access and MBTA parking, which would cost $50, while a sticker strictly for compost center access would cost $25.

"Town officials pointed out that the MBTA makes much more off parking prices at other lots than the town does in Reading.

"The Selectmen opted to take no action on the sticker price issue."

DEBATE AND PASSION (TEWKSBURY)

"...Tewksbury held a Special Town Meeting to allow residents the ability to deliberate and vote on various issues distinct from those addressed at Town Meeting," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"All articles presented in the meeting warrant passed, and most went through without discussion.

"Article Five prompted debate over the use of money to fill the stabilization fund. Some preferred that it be used to pay down debt.

"Article Eleven proved to be the most contentious, as it evoked spirited discussion over the merits of making the Town Clerk an appointed position, instead of an elected one. Town Moderator Keith Rauseo presented an amendment to eleven that would clean up the article's language. It would, in effect, replace the article as written with the improved version. Also, the amendment stated that the current Town Clerk, Denise Graffeo, would continue to serve until April 2014, the expiration of her term. The article, as it was originally written, did not explicitly state whether this would be allowed.

"Warren Carey rose to passionately denounce the article and its amendment...

"Richard O'Neill also offered his thoughts on the amendment...

"Town Manager Richard Montuori said the new definition of the position would allow someone with the proper qualifications to serve as Clerk...."

Down 31 pounds and 5% body fat

AFTER

After two children and ten years behind a desk all day, I was 60 pounds overweight and three years into a gym membership that I never used, when I saw the ads for GISFW in the local paper. Currently I am down 31 pounds and 5% body fat in only 3 months. The team works to keep me on track through informative emails and regular weigh-ins. I'm excited to start the second half of my journey with the wonderful owners and trainers at my GISFW.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

What former Major League Pitcher compiled the unenviable record of 27 consecutive losing decisions while pitching for the Mets during the 1992 and 1993 seasons?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•SENIOR HANNAH MERULLO (WAKEFIELD, MASS.) was named the Northeast-10 Conference Defensive Player of the Week recently after leading the UMass Lowell women's soccer team in a 1-1 week.

Merullo scored two goals - less than five minutes apart - in UMass Lowell's pivotal 3-1 victory over Southern Connecticut last week, which set a school record for consecutive wins (eight).

Both of Merullo's goals came off set pieces, the first off a free kick from senior M Maddy Bissailon (Merrimack, Mass.) in the 64th minute which brought UMass Lowell level at 1-1. In the 69th minute, Bissailon sent a corner kick to sophomore B Sarah Raye (Salem, N.H.), who lobbed into the box for Merullo to sidefoot home.

The goals were UMass Lowell's first since Sept. 23, 2008.

UMass Lowell's winning streak ended Saturday in a 2-0 loss at Pace.

Merullo has led a backline which has compiled eight shutouts this season and ranks fourth among NE-10 leaders in goals against average (0.58).

•Freshman F Jillian Ferro scored two goals as Pace University stunned UMass Lowell, 2-0, in a Northeast-10 Conference women's soccer match in Briarcliff, N.Y.

The loss snapped UMass Lowell's school record winning streak at eight games as it slipped to 10-3-2 overall and 9-2-2 in the NE-10.

Pace captured its sixth straight match and improved to 8-7-1 overall and 7-6-1 in the Conference.

The Setters opened the scoring in the 19th minute when sophomore F Amanda Mundorf sent a ball over the top of the UMass Lowell defense, enabling for Ferro to slot home past FRESHMAN GK JANE HATZIKONSTANTIS (TEWKSBURY, MASS.).

"Pace is a tough opponent," said head coach Elie Monteiro. "On the day, they were really, really motivated. We just never matched their intensity. They were very direct. We found it hard to put the ball down and play. It was just a bad day for us."

The River Hawks came out in the second half and unleashed seven of the first eight shots on goal, but to no avail. Pace doubled its score in the 84th when Ferro took a failed clearance in the box and tucked it inside the low left corner of the goal.

•Need some help with the trivia question? His initials are A.Y.

•Clarence Onyiriuka (Painted Post, NY) ran for 158 yards and three touchdowns to lead the University of Rochester to a 28-21 victory over Worcester Polytechnic Institute at Edwin Fauver Stadium.

He scored all three TDs in the second half as Rochester rallied from deficits of 14-7 and 21-13. Joe Cicero (Fairport, NY) caught a four-yard TD pass from Braezen Subick (Mahwah, NJ) for the first Rochester touchdown. Alex Antonucci (New York, NY) made one PAT and kicked a 21 yard field goal for the Yellowjackets. Rochester is 3-3 overall, 2-2 in the Liberty League.

WPI quarterback Johnny Antonopoulos (Cambridge, MA) passed for 169 yards and two touchdowns. He threw a three-yard TD pass to Nick Bean (Middleboro, MA) and a 12-yarder to Josh Less (Fitchburg, MA) late in the third quarter. The TD to Bean put the Engineers ahead, 7-0. The scoring pass to Less opened a 21-13 lead. WPI is 2-5, 1-3 in the Liberty League.

Onyiriuka carried the ball 31 times for 158 yards. He also caught a 16-yard pass. Subick hit 12 of 19 for 137 yards. He was sacked four times, twice by Shaine Grogan (Peru, MA). Rochester totaled 299 yards in offense - 162 rushing, 137 passing.

ERNE MELLO (WILMINGTON, MA) rushed 19 times for 48 net yards, including a 20-yard TD midway through the second half which pushed WPI in front, 14-7. Antonopoulos hit 17 of 28 passes for 169 yards with one interception. He was sacked three times.

Rochester's Shaquill McCullers fumbled a handoff and Grogan recovered for the Engineers at the Rochester 27 early in the first half. Antonopoulos hit Bean for 17 yards. Four plays later, on third and goal, Rochester was flagged for pass interference in the end zone. It put the ball on the one. Mello was stopped twice before Antonopoulos found Bean on a rollout to the left. Cody Beckel's (Jupiter, FL) PAT made it 7-0.

Rochester drove 58 yards in eight plays to tie it. Onyiriuka rushed five times for 27 yards in the drive before Subick connected with Cicero on second and goal from the four.

Mello broke up the middle for a 20-yard TD with 7:47 left in the second half. Rochester did force a punt late in the quarter. Subick hit two passes to move the ball to the 16 before he was sacked on back to back plays by Grogan, ending the half.

The fourth quarter was filled with fireworks. WPI moved from its own 28 to the Rochester 13 when three passes fell incomplete. Beckel's 31-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Zach Cicero (Fairport, NY) for a touchdown. Rochester drove 80 yards in seven plays to take the lead. On third and one from the WPI 46, Onyiriuka broke up the middle, broke 3 tackles, and burst free for a 46-yard TD run. That put Rochester ahead, 25-21, with 6:09 to play. The two-point pass failed again.

Antonopoulos was intercepted by Rochester's Tyler Kette (Bay Village, OH) at the WPI 37 with 5:30 to play. Subick drove the Yellowjackets down to the four where Antonucci kicked his field goal for a 28-21 lead with 1:59 left.

Mello's 32-yard kickoff return put the ball on the WPI 46. After a pass for no gain to Mello, two passes fell incomplete. Antonopoulos scrambled on fourth down and was six yards shy of first down. Rochester ran out the clock.

Lake

said Lake. "After that I opened a place on South Main Street, a grooming and boarding kennel for 22 years.

Fate intervened once again, and she was forced to change careers one more time.

"Lady Luck struck again," said Lake. "A large dog injured the same ankle I had hurt before. This time I had four six-inch pins put in and had to give up my business."

After that experience, she took time to heal and did what many would do - she headed for the hills.

"I bought my dream house in the mountains near Quebec," said Lake. "My dream house is a log cabin."

A new chapter in Lake's story was written last spring, when she was immortalized in a wrestling Hall of Fame.

The New England Pro Wrestling Hall of Fame was founded by Joe Bruen in January of 2008. Three Induction Ceremonies took place at local shows as filler during Intermission. Joe Bruen really wanted to make sure that local talent were recognized in a public forum for all that they did over the years.

Last spring's event was a much more formal affair, featuring personal appearances and a full day of activities.

Lake doesn't think much of the scantily-clad female wrestlers of today's WWE.

"I think it's disgusting, the way wrestling is today," Lake said. "You've got women running around with no clothing and implants. We never would have allowed that stuff. We were there to put on a match. Maybe I'm an old fogey."

Still, even today, there's no place she'd rather be than in the ring.

"I spend a lot of my time traveling as a handler at dog shows," said Lake. "I enjoy showing, but I'd much rather be wrestling."

Rep. Adams redistricted out of Tewksbury

BY JON BISHOP

TEWKSBURY - Paul Adams, elected just last year to take over Barry Finegold's seat in the House, now faces a new challenge as the portion of Tewksbury he represented was recently redistricted.

Redistricting happens every ten years in Massachusetts following the federal census. Tewksbury will be split between the 19th Middlesex and the 18th Essex. Adams will be moved to Lawrence, as well as parts of Andover. He will begin his term in the new district starting January of 2013.

"I'm very disappointed to lose Tewksbury. I love representing Tewksbury. But, I'm looking forward to the new challenge and opportunity," he said.

Adams said the whole district moved north. Ethnic demographics were a concern when crafting the new districts.

Many of Adams's new constituents will be Hispanic.

"I'm competitive in the city of Lawrence. I speak fluent Spanish and Portuguese. I relate well with the Hispanic community," he said, adding, "I understand Latino issues."

Adams said he already has four precincts in the city. This, however, will increase when the new districts take effect.

He added that Lawrence residents regard him warmly.

"Lawrencians know me as their friend and their neighbor, and their voice on Beacon Hill," he said.

Adams said he is excited to continue in that capacity.

"I look forward to getting to know the residents of north Lawrence that I don't already represent even better," he said.

He added that his easy transition is due to the hard work he has already put into his short time in office.

"It speaks to my hard work ethic and my time to understanding people's concerns," He said.

He said that his home, however, will be grouped into the 18th district. Thus, in order to continue to represent the 17th district, he will have to move before he runs for re-election.

"I'm moving a couple miles down the street in order to run for re-election. I have every intention of running for re-election in the 17th district," he said.

Had he stayed in his house, he said he would have had to run against Representative Jim Lyons, a fellow Republican and freshman who represents the 18th district. He called Lyons a great friend, stating he'd rather stay in the 17th district than challenge Lyons for his seat.

4M homeowners eligible for foreclosure review process

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 4 million homeowners who may have been improperly foreclosed upon in 2009 and 2010 are getting an opportunity to have their cases reviewed. Whether they will be reimbursed is up to the same lenders who are accused of moving too swiftly to seize their homes.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency said Monday that mortgage services will begin sending out letters this month that ask borrowers if they want their case reviewed.

The nation's 14 largest mortgage servicers — including Citibank, Bank of America, JPMorgan Chase and Wells Fargo — were ordered to offer to review cases after the government found that some rushed the foreclosure process without carefully reviewing documents.

The orders require the lenders pay homeowners when a "borrower suffered financial injury." There is no minimum or maximum dollar amount identified.

Critics, including congressional Democrats, say the orders were too lenient on the banks and that it was inappropriate for the lenders to review their own potential mistakes.

"Servicers have a poor performance track record in effectively engaging with borrowers, and, in the claims process, have a natural disincentive to reach the households their practices have harmed," wrote Rep. Maxine Waters (D-Calif.) in a letter to regulators.

Regulators say independent consultants will also review the cases and that those reviews would likely take several months. If a consultant finds that a lender erred, it will conduct follow-up reviews on other cases to see if the lender is trying to dodge blame.

"The challenge is substantial, but the steps we have required the servicers to take are vitally important to resolving these issues in a way that respects the rights of those who have been harmed and helps to restore confidence in the system," said John Walsh, acting Comptroller of the Currency.

In the four years since the housing bust, about 5 million homes have been foreclosed upon. About 2.4 million primary mortgages were in foreclosure at the end of last year. Another 2 million were 90 days or more past due, putting them at serious risk of foreclosure.

The other lenders and service providers cited by the agencies include: Ally Financial Inc., Aurora Bank, EverBank, HSBC, MetLife Bank, OneWest Bank, PNC, Sovereign Bank, SunTrust Banks, U.S. Bank, Lender Processing Services and MER-SCORP.

Eligible homeowners can also call 888-952-9105 or go to www.independentforeclosurereview.com for more information. Requests to review specific foreclosure cases must be received by April 30.

A wide arched opening links the living room to a dining room that is expanded by a window bay. Sliding glass windows there access a large deck, down a few steps from the main floor. The dining room is totally open to the kitchen, where a large work island adds to the counter and cabinet space. Standing at the kitchen sink, you can keep close tabs on the dining room, patio and backyard.

Not visually apparent is the integration of green building features, designed to meet Energy Star Benchmark Home Standards. Special considerations in this design focused on maximizing efficiency of the plumbing, mechanical system, insulation and more. These are just a few of the many green features found in this design. While passersby will delight in the Green Acre's nostalgic façade, Mother Nature will delight in the invisible features that will help make the environment a better place.

Woburn School Committee OKs MSBA submission for Hurld/Wyman elementary school

BY PATRICK BLAIS

WOBURN - The Woburn School Committee recently granted Superintendent Mark Donovan the authority to formally begin soliciting the state for money to build a new facility for Wyman and Hurld school pupils.

According to Donovan, the Mass. School Building Authority (MSBA) is again accepting so-called statements of interest (SOI) that indicate a community's desire to rebuild or renovate an educational building.

In two roll count votes, the School Committee last night unanimously supported the submission of the paperwork.

The MSBA, and its predecessor under the control of the then Mass. Dept. of Education, have contributed millions of dollars to the city for five new schools, including the just opened Goodyear School in East Woburn.

Submitting the SOI does not guarantee state funding or require Woburn to appropriate any money for a new construction project. The city can withdraw from the process at any time.

Last night, the superintendent explained that the Wyman and Hurld Schools are now being eyed for a replacement facility for two specific MSBA standards, including:

- That both the Hurld and Wyman are equipped with outdated HVAC systems, which have outlived their useful life.

- That both buildings lack adequate spaces for art, music, special education, and pre-kindergarten programs, while the Wyman also lacks a sufficient electricity system to operate modern day technology tools.

According to Mayor Scott Galvin, he fully supported the School Committee action, especially since it requires no commitment from the city other than to work with the state officials to see if building a new building seems justified.

However, Galvin did stipulate that if that study does near the point where an appropriation of funding is necessary to move forward, he and the City Council will have to seriously consider the city's and the City Council will have to seriously consider the city's financial condition and ability to slate money aside.

"I support them wholeheartedly," the mayor said of the two SOIs. "There's no commitment of funds. There's no harm in moving forward; in fact, it's a forward looking action."

At the request of School Committee member Denis Russell, Donovan outlined what he expects to transpire after the MSBA receives the documentation.

"It's difficult to nail down a timeline," the superintendent later said, pointing out that the MSBA works very deliberately and cautiously when considering where to allocate reimbursement dollars for school projects.

"The SOI deadline is in January, so I expect no steps from the MSBA until that time. The message to me was when we submit the additional statement of interest, they'll ask for more information and then the process goes on," Donovan added.
